Chinese views on Indochina and other world problems are emphasized in this interview with the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai. The writer, now in China, is a former Polish diplomat. He writes for the New Statesman of London and Nouvelle Observateur of Paris.

U.S. Willing To Assist 'In Peace'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Against a background of congressional talk about negotiations, President Johnson said Thursday "the United States will never be second in seeking a settlement in Viet Nam that is based on an end to Communist aggression."

This was basically a repetition of the often-stated U.S. position on the war in South Viet Nam. But Johnson said also the U.S. looks forward to a day when all Southeast Asia "will need not military support and assistance against aggression but only economic co-operation for progress in peace."

This appeared a broad hint that the U.S. stands ready to assist even Communist North Viet Nam in a tranquil Southeast Asia.

The president's latest recapitulation on the troublesome Viet Nam situation was offered in a statement to his cabinet which was released by the White House press office.

Johnson's views were made public a few hours after Senator Jacob Javits (Rep.-N.Y.) urged Johnson to disclose "general principles on which we are willing to negotiate" to end the expanding warfare.

The New Yorker offered a resolution which would put Congress on record as approving stepped-up U.S. military efforts but would express also U.S. readiness to undertake "honorable negotiations" to halt the lingering and costly guerrilla warfare.

Promoter's Conflicting Testimony:

False Statement Meant To Frame Ex-Minister

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Race track promoter Roch Deslauriers testified Thursday that he swore out a false statement in February of 1964 implicating Yvon Dupuis in an alleged $10,000 influence - peddling payoff because Bernard Pinard, Quebec roads minister, was anxious to get evidence against Mr. Dupuis.

Mr. Deslauriers made the statement under cross-examination at the preliminary hearing of Mr. Dupuis, a 38-year-old former federal cabinet minister who faces three influence - peddling charges in connection with an abortive attempt to get a racetrack charter from the Quebec government in 1961.

Mr. Deslauriers, 51, a St. Johns chiropractor who sought the racetrack charter, said the false statement, sworn out last year, asserted that Raoul Gobeille was in Mr. Dupuis' office in the parliament buildings May 9, 1961, when Mr. Deslauriers handed the Liberal member of Parliament two envelopes containing $10,000 in cash.

Mr. Deslauriers testified earlier that Mr. Gobeille waited outside in the car. This, he repeated Thursday, was the truth.

WANTED EVIDENCE

He had drafted the false statement because Mr. Pinard wanted evidence against the former federal minister without portfolio.

The chiropractor said he had also had Mr. Gobeille swear out a false statement to the effect that he had seen the money change hands.

Mr. Deslauriers said he went to Mr. Pinard to complain that the racetrack franchise, despite many assurances, had not been issued.

That was when Mr. Pinard had asked him to gather evidence against Dupuis, The Liberal MP for St. Jean-Berville-Napierville.

ON BORDERLINE

Earlier, defence lawyer Raymond Daoust read in court another sworn statement of Mr. Deslauriers which the chiropractor said was not exactly false, but parts of which were "on the borderline" of truth.

Mr. Deslauriers said he signed this statement, dated last Dec. 25, under "enormous pressure" from Real Rousseau who, he said, was introduced to him by Mr. Dupuis as a top man in the Liberal party.

The statement was written by someone else and he was told to sign "to save Dupuis at Ottawa."

TO SAVE DUPUIS

The statement said Mr. Dupuis had never asked for any gift in return for his support of the racetrack charter application, but was given the money to pass on to the late Paul Earl, then Quebec revenue minister.

This conflicted with Mr. Deslauriers' earlier testimony to the effect that Mr. Dupuis had both demanded and received $10,000 in cash for his efforts.

U.S. Envoy Awaited

Indonesians Halt Petty Harassment

JAKARTA (UPI)—Petty harassment of Americans here came to a halt Thursday. U.S. and Indonesian officials awaited the arrival of a special envoy sent by President Johnson in an effort to ease strained American-Indonesian relations.

Special envoy and veteran diplomat Ellsworth Bunker, appointed as presidential troubleshooter, is expected to arrive Sunday. U.S. Ambassador Howard Jones met with President Sukarno Thursday for more than two hours to discuss the nature of Bunker's visit.

An editorial in the semi-official Indonesian Herald Thursday expressed hope that Bunker's visit "would rescue Indonesian-American relations from further deterioration."

The lives of Americans returned to normal conditions. Harassment during the past week included the cutting off of electricity and gas to American homes, interruption of mail deliveries and a 24-hour blackout on news stories filed by American correspondents. All such annoyances appeared to have stopped.

Crew Jumps Free of Fire

HARRISON (CP) — The three-man crew of the tug Tattio jumped to a boom and safety Wednesday night as the vessel was suddenly enveloped in flames on Harrison Lake.

Skipper Victor Kelly, 43, Warren Lees, 20, and Ernie Link, 20, escaped injury and were picked up later from the boom by another vessel.

PEKING (AP) — "If the Americans are not content with threatening gestures and really want to provoke a wider conflict, then the Chinese and Russian people will close ranks."

This was Premier Chou En-lai talking about the situation in Viet Nam. Continuing in this vein in a 2½-hour interview, he declared:
"That is the truth. Remember that and you will see that history will bear it out. That is why President Johnson, who is dancing on the tight rope of war and doesn't know how to turn about, is risking some surprises."

Chou emphasized the last phrase, but did not say what he meant by it.

Alabama: Violent Aftermath of March

RIGHTS ROAD MURDER

Kennedy Thanks Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Robert Kennedy Thursday telephoned Prime Minister Pearson to thank the Canadian government for its co-operation in his climbing of Mount Kennedy earlier this week. (See Page 3.)

The senator also informed Mr. Pearson that he placed a Canadian flag at the top of the mountain.

MONTGOMERY (UPI) — A white mother of five from Detroit was shot to death Thursday night while running a shuttle service between here and Selma for some of the 30,000 demonstrators who marched on the Alabama statehouse.

The federal bureau of investigation said early today that a bullet from a high-powered rifle killed Mrs. Viola Gregg Luzzo, 39, of Detroit. Civil rights leaders said the shots came from a passing automobile.

Mrs. Luzzo was returning from Selma to Montgomery on U.S. Highway 80, the route used by the civil rights marchers in their five-day trek to the capitol, when two bullets hit her automobile about three miles west of Lowndesboro, a crossroads on the highway.

The massive demonstration, regarded as a historic moment in the civil rights movement in the south was led by Nobel Prize winner Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and Ralph Bunche, under-secretary of the United Nations.

The killing capped the most massive racial demonstration in the history of the deep south. The protest matched in drama the "March on Washington" by 200,000 persons in 1963.

Col. Al Lingo, head of the Alabama State Patrol, said papers on Mrs. Luzzo's body indicated she was one of the persons who took part in the mass demonstration.

Lingo said one bullet apparently hit the top of the car, the other passing through the window on the driver's side and

'They Killed Mom'

DETROIT (UPI) — "There were 25,000 people down there and she had to be the one. She had to be the one. My God, it's unbelievable."

Those were the anguished words of Anthony J. Luzzo, 51, minutes after he learned his wife, Viola, 39, had been shot to death while driving back to Selma, Ala., from Thursday's racial demonstration in Montgomery.

Luzzo, a big husky teamsters official, wept openly and cried: "The dirty race, the dirty race. What kind of people are living down there? What kind of people can they be?"

He described his wife, a mother of five, as a "champion of the people. She was the biggest hearted woman you ever saw in your life."

Mrs. Luzzo, a laboratory technician at Mt. Sinai Hospital and a part-time student at Wayne State University, had gone to Selma last week.

"I tried to discourage her," Luzzo said. "But she told me four or five of her friends were going down there and I couldn't stop her. They took off."

Luzzo talked to newsmen in his home, a big brick colonial in a pleasant neighborhood in southwest Detroit. It was 1 a.m. but all the lights were on. There were children crying: "They killed Mom. They killed Mom."

Friends and relatives were there to comfort the stricken family.

Some of them were hysterical.

Luzzo, who was chain smoking cigarettes and trying to hold himself together, said he found out about his wife's death shortly after midnight.

This was the way it happened:

"At 12:05 a.m. my phone rang," he said.

"It was a call from Montgomery. A man told me, 'Your wife has been shot.'"

"I asked him: 'Is it serious?'"

"He said: 'No, it's critical.'"

"And then he said, 'Just a moment please and I'll call you back.' He came back to the phone and said, 'She's dead.'"

A few moments later, he said, newsmen began calling.

"I had a feeling tonight; I just had a feeling," he said.

Luzzo said he told one of the children:
"March still isn't over. There's more bad things left in the month."

Then he added:
"These people fought a civil war more than 100 years ago and they're still fighting it. What kind of people can they be?"

Lawful Process 'Prostituted'

MONTGOMERY (UPI)—Gov. George Wallace, speaking on nationwide TV, called the 30,000-man civil rights march on the Alabama capitol "prostitution of lawful process."

He said the demonstration cost $1,000,000. This apparently was a reference to expenditures by the federal government.

Wallace said, "I see that Ralph Bunche, the United Nations man, was here. He's supposed to be defending us against Communists but today he was consorting with known Communists."

Wallace said he would not be "intimidated" by the people "who come up here in a mob." He said a very small percentage of the demonstrators were Alabamians.

He congratulated the people of Alabama for lack of incidents during the Selma to Montgomery march.

"The white people of Alabama stayed completely away because we asked them to," he said. "I think that should be widely reported."

Winch Hot About the Heat

Navy 'Hell' at Sea

OTTAWA (CP)—Claims that some sailors aboard the aircraft carrier Bonaventure are living in "unmitigated hell" were made before the Commons defence committee on Thursday by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East).

He said a mess he visited on the carrier was so crowded there wasn't room for a card table, and the heat was "fierce."

Mr. Winch, who recently returned from visiting Canadian ships in joint U.S.-Canada exercises in the Caribbean, also said the air conditioning system in the newer destroyer escorts is uncomfortable, depending on the temperature of the water.

Off the coast of Costa Rica, some men had to wear four blankets in bed because the air conditioning could not be controlled, he said.

Commodore S. M. Davis, director-general of ships for the navy, said the main purpose of air conditioning is to control temperatures around electronic equipment, and to enable the ship to be sealed off from outside elements in case it has to go through toxic clouds.

So far as the Bonaventure is concerned, Commodore Davis said, Mr. Winch's criticism was justified but this was characteristic of the ship's age. Improvements would be made but they "can only be marginal."

Estimates Passed Early Today

'Without Being Critical Some of It Is Ridiculous'

Welfare Minister Black Thursday rapped some B.C. courts and magistrates for their attitudes toward Brannan Lake Industrial School.

Mr. Black was responding to statements by Dave Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) that boys as young as 12 years have been sent to the reform school.

The minister said that without being critical of the courts' decisions, "Some of it has been downright, utterly ridiculous."

Later Mr. Black said some magistrates use Brannan Lake as a holding unit "which is completely and utterly wrong."

Research Council Invention

Wave-Proof Float

OTTAWA (CP) — A National Research Council physicist has constructed a float that will sit among 10-foot waves without bouncing more than a foot.

The float, 200 feet in diameter and shaped like a huge teacup, can be used as the base for offshore oil drilling rigs, scientific studies of the ocean, floating fish processing plants, satellite observation stations, floating docks, or landing fields at sea for helicopters.

It is the invention of G. L. E. Jarian, senior research officer in the hydraulics laboratory of NRC's mechanical engineering division.

A model was constructed and tested in NRC tanks. Canadian Patents and Development Limited, a subsidiary of NRC, has applied for a patent.

PERFORATED WALLS

The platform is supported by a double-walled cylinder perforated with three-foot tubes. A core inside the cylinder provides buoyancy so that about 25 feet of the structure will float above the water.

Waves hitting the cylinder slosh into it through the tubes. This sets up turbulence inside the cylinder which has the effect of cushioning the blow of the waves. As the water runs out again, the whole structure is steadied.

NRC has no immediate plans to build a full-scale marine floating platform, but its design can be licensed for private builders.

Big New Power Line Completed to Border

BELLINGHAM (AP)—A 500,000-volt Bonneville power system line from Arlington to the Canadian border at Blaine was completed Thursday after a one-day delay.

The high-power line will replace a 230,000-volt line now linking B.C. to the Northwest power pool.

The new line will not be energized for about three months, when its counterpart on the Canadian side is completed.

Lights Likely Along Highway

Lighting of seven intersections along the Patricia Bay Highway in Central Saanich is being considered by the municipality. "Although we missed out on the highway department's 1964 budget, we hope to be included in this year's," said Reeve R. Gordon Lee.

If It Won't Fight He Won't Belong

Government backbencher Cyril Shefford says he will resign from the B.C. Automobile Association for its apparent siding with oil companies in the Royal Commission on gasoline prices.

Mr. Shefford called on B.C. motorists not to tolerate the stand of the Automobile Association, and suggested the group is supporting the position of oil companies "without any questions being asked, or even bothering to come and hear the arguments from the other side presented to the Royal Commission."

Plays a Gamble —Not Audience

Two original one-act plays by University of Victoria students will be presented at 8:15 p.m. today and Saturday in the Gordon Head Theatre.

The plays—Dog in the Car by Charles Stanbury and Once Inside An Alien by Louis Capson—were chosen over 14 others submitted by students of the Dave Buchan creative writing class.

The plays and a set of improvisations by the senior theatre class are under the direction of Carl Hare.

Although much in the presentations will be experimental, attendance by the public will be no gamble. Admission is free.

Chou Gives Views

process of extending its aggression," Chou declared. "It is sending marines to South Viet Nam and in a single month it has bombed the democratic republic of Viet Nam (Communist North Viet Nam) six times."

"But the American government will never force the South Vietnamese people and the democratic republic of Viet Nam into negotiations by intensifying the war. As the old Chinese proverb says, they are trying to go to the north while heading their horses to the south."

Asked whether he thought the United States might be stepping up operations to save face before negotiations begin, Chou replied half astonished, half indignant:

"Saving face? A brigand who has committed an armed robbery—can he save face by committing a second or a third? How many crimes are required before America's face is, as you put it, saved?"

Withdraw Forces

"In my view, the best way this bandit can save his face is by giving back the property he has stolen. The best way the Americans can save face is by withdrawing their forces from South Viet Nam and by renouncing the right they claim to carry the war into the north."

Chou said that "American aggression against the democratic republic of Viet Nam is aggression against the socialist (Communist) camp in its entirety."

"This being so, all of us have the duty to help the national liberation front of South Viet Nam and the democratic republic of Viet Nam in accordance with the international engagement we have undertaken."

For the second time, I tried to put up the case for negotiations, reminding Chou that in both Indochina and Algeria France had intensified its military operations preceding peace talks. Chou rejected the comparison.

France Learned

"France has learned the lessons of colonial wars," he said. "She knows they can't be won. That is why, each time I meet my French friends, I ask them: 'Why can't you persuade your American friends to learn from experience?' And each time I speak to my American friends I ask: 'Why aren't you capable of producing a de Gaulle?'"

Asked about the ideological dispute with the Soviet Union and China's refusal to attend the March 1 meeting of Communist parties in Moscow, Chou replied:

"When (Nikita) Khrushchev was in power, two such conferences took place. President Mao Tse-tung himself took part in the first at Moscow in 1957 and President Liu Shao-chi in 1960. The declarations published at the end of these two conferences were not at all bad."

"But this did not prevent Khrushchev from going on his old way and treating the declarations with contempt."

Our New Hopes

Chou noted the March 1 meeting originally was set by Khrushchev for last Dec. 15, and after his fall in October "we put our new hopes in the new Soviet leaders."

When he went to Moscow in November for the anniversary of the Russian revolution, Chou said, "I advised the Soviet leaders not to hold the Dec. 15 meeting on the grounds that this would be a gathering of splitters."

"Khrushchev having fallen, wouldn't it be a simple matter to cancel it?" he continued.

Your help does so much

"But here the question of 'saving face' as you put it, arises. They were determined to have the legacy of Khrushchev and they therefore had their March 1 meeting."

Chou was asked what he thought of President de Gaulle's plan for the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China, to meet and discuss the reform of the United Nations.

Not Interested

"But China has nothing to do with the UN," Chou replied. "It is true that China is not at all interested in the UN. For 15 years this organization, manipulated by the United States, frustrated China's legitimate rights."

"Why cannot one envisage founding another UN that might be as revolutionary? That is what I said recently in Peking at a banquet for Mr. Subandrio, Indonesia's foreign minister. Elsewhere, China has put forward a positive formula—that is, that the UN rectify its mistakes and submit to a radical reorganization."

As for peaceful coexistence, Chou said:

"To ask China to coexist peacefully with the United States while the latter maintains military bases around China and occupies the Chinese territory of Formosa, obviously, that is impossible."

Birth Control Pills Lessen Or Stop Nursing Mother's Milk

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Should birth control pills be taken by a nursing mother? If not, what would be her best protection against becoming pregnant even though she is nursing?—G. R.

For a time after pregnancy ovulation does not resume. So, of course, there can be no pregnancy or menstruation.

Usually this is at least for six or eight weeks. But in any case, it is best to abstain from sex relations for that length of time. My suggestion would be to wait until then, have a checkup by your doctor, and have him advise you as to when to resume the pills.

The pills will lessen or stop milk production. Hence if your milk supply is adequate for the baby's needs, the pills should not be taken.

If the milk supply is diminishing or the prospect of weaning is near, then I would wait a little longer—that is, wait until you have stopped nursing before resuming the pills.

Your menstrual rhythm by then should be well established again, which is important in knowing the proper time to take the pills—that is, from the fifth day through the 20th day after the onset of each period.

If my suggestion still leaves you with an interval when pregnancy is possible, but you are not yet ready to resume the pills, one of the older methods of birth control would suffice. Your doctor can advise which would be best for you.

Incidentally, nursing does not prevent pregnancy.

Dear Dr.: Is it advisable to continue birth control pills after menopause?

No. The purpose of the pills is to prevent ovulation, or release of an ovum or egg. When menopause has occurred, Nature has already halted ovulation.

Dear Dr. Molner: I can't have any salt as I have high blood pressure, but the rest of my family like it in their food. Since I can't afford to cook things for myself alone, what do you suggest?—MRS. M.A.

First, let the family salt their food to suit themselves at the table. Second, if occasionally you can't help having some particular food salted before it reaches the table, you can substitute something else for yourself just for that meal—scramble some eggs, or eat leftovers from the day before. Third, avoid foods which are salted when they are processed.

Most preserved meats, whether bacon, sausage, or others, are salted. Use fresh meats, fish and poultry instead. Fourth, you can get salt substitutes at the grocery or drug store.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to have a nose lengthened? Is it necessary to wear make-up afterward?—N.L.

Yes, it's perfectly possible to enlarge as well as reduce such features as noses and chins. No, you don't have to use make-up afterward.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss small children who are allergic to cow's milk, and what is the treatment?—L.Q.

Some children are allergic to cow's milk and the treatment is to remove it from the diet. Pasteurized goat's milk sometimes is substituted with success; a messy-looking but nutritious substitute called soybean "milk" has sufficed for others until they were older and (usually) became able to tolerate cow's milk. Later, giving very small and increasing amounts of whole milk helps desensitize the child. Boiling the milk may also be helpful.

$25,000,000 Heroin Haul

MONTREAL (CP) — The RCMP has intercepted $25,000,000 worth of pure heroin apparently en route from France to the United States.

Two employees of Air France and a Montreal area truck driver have been arrested and formally charged with possession and conspiracy to traffic in narcotics. All three were ordered held in custody until April 2.

The haul, involving 28 kilograms or about 61 pounds of heroin, is the second largest in Canadian history.

The seizure, announced Thursday by Assistant RCMP Commissioner J. R. W. Bordeleau, culminated an investigation by RCMP narcotics agents into report of heroin-smuggling into Canada by employees of Air France.

Those arrested are: Roger Loiseleur, 50, a steward with Air France, who lives near Paris.

Georges Aubert, 40, a purser with the airline, who lives in Paris.

Roland de laColle, 49, a truck driver from St. Leonard de Port Maurice, near Montreal.

ONE SOUGHT

Bordeleau said a fourth man, believed to be from New York City, is being sought. The RCMP has asked New York authorities for assistance in finding him.

Bordeleau said RCMP investigators closed in on the operation Wednesday night when they arrested Loiseleur in a downtown hotel. Four kilos of heroin were found.

While at the hotel, police were informed a second guest, who registered as a New York City resident, had made inquiries about the Air France steward. The U.S. visitor was not in his room, but a search uncovered another six kilos of heroin hidden there.

Aubert and de laColle were picked up Thursday morning when narcotics agents stopped their automobile in midtown Montreal. Inside the car were the remaining 18 kilos.

Senator Sank

SEATTLE — Senator Robert Kennedy said on a flight here he fell into a crevasse while springing the top of the 13,900-foot mountain named by Canada for his slain brother, the late President Kennedy.

The 35-year-old senator said he dropped through to his chest before the 50-foot rope linking him and climb leader James Whitaker slowed the fall, allowing Kennedy to spread his arms across the top of the narrow crevasse.

He said the eight-man party crossed many crevasses, 200 to 300 feet deep, on the mountain, but he fell into only one. Barry Switzer, Tacoma, anchorman behind Whitaker and Kennedy, fell into three crevasses but was not injured.

OTTAWA — The Shah of Iran and his wife Empress Farah are to spend eight days in Canada, from May 19 to 26. The state visit, their first to Canada, will take them to Ottawa, Quebec City, Montreal and Toronto.

DUBLIN, Ireland — Israeli actress Dalia Lavi escaped injury when she rushed screaming from her burning trailer on location for a film. "I don't want to go into a trailer ever again," she said.

RIO DE JANEIRO — An 80-year-old millionaire shot a man in the right arm when he broke into her home. It was the fourth such exploit for Mrs. Judith de Melo Rabel since 1947 when she was first robbed. On three occasions, Mrs. de Melo repelled thieves with gunfire. "With me," she told newsmen, "it's bullets for thieves."

New Links In Wake Of Conflict

BONN (AP) — One side-effect of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's troubles in the Middle East may be to bring West Germany new contacts with the Communist bloc.

For nearly a decade, West Germany has refused diplomatic relations with any country except Russia that formally recognizes East Germany.

Then came the visit to Egypt by Walter Ulbricht, president of East Germany. West Germany offered diplomatic relations to Israel, and the Arab states threatened to take up relations with Ulbricht.

Should hope disappear of preventing neutral countries from recognizing East Germany, there will not be much reason left to bar traditional ties between West Germany and the nations of Eastern Europe.

Thursday's march on Montgomery was the most massive racial demonstration in the history of the deep south.

Gov. George C. Wallace twice rebuffed delegations representing the civil rights demonstrators.

An aide of King's, Hosea Williams, said the march signalled the end of major demonstrations in this state for a while.

NO MAJOR PUSHES

Williams said no additional major pushes would be attempted until after Negro leaders meet in Washington the first week in April. He did not rule out the possibility of routine protests.

Some whites showed open resentment at the culmination of the five-day march from Selma. An intermittent rain fell during the demonstration.

'Sacred Privileges'

Quebec Threatens John D

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — Quebec Premier Lesage Thursday night angrily accused Conservative leader Diefenbaker of a "flagrant violation" of the privileges of the Quebec assembly because of a statement he made in the House of Commons concerning Quebec.

Mr. Lesage said the province would study the possibility of calling Mr. Diefenbaker to the bar of the assembly to explain his statements.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Commons an act before the Quebec legislature to approve the Fulton-Favreau formula for repatriation of the Canadian constitution took the form of an address to the Queen and no province had this sovereign right of address.

"This affair does not regard anyone other than Quebec," Mr. Lesage retorted. "Mr. Diefenbaker in showing his authoritarian centralizing spirit has clearly violated the sacred privileges of the Quebec Legislative Assembly."

Budget Prospects

WITH GOVERNMENT spending for the fiscal year 1965-66 estimated at $7,400,000,000, or $700,000,000 more than the estimates tabled at the same time last year, the possibility of tax relief in Mr. Walter Gordon's forthcoming budget looks a little less bright than it did some months ago.

It is true that supplementary estimates for the financial year just closing have raised government spending for 1964-65 to $7,200,000,000, only slightly less than the current estimates, but it can be taken as certain that the supplementary estimates in the new year will also be heavy, and that unless something unexpected happens the 1965-66 budget will not be balanced—tax cut or no tax cut.

A year ago when the U.S. cut taxes as an incentive to industry a surge of activity developed and the resultant increased tax base more than equalized the loss of revenue through lower tax levels.

Industry and commerce in Canada in recent months have made it very clear to the finance minister that they believe a similar tax cut in Canada this year would create such expansion that overall government revenues would not be reduced, and they have fairly good evidence to support their contentions.

On the other hand, Canada is not in a state of economic distress. The reverse is more true because the country is probably moving ahead nearly as rapidly as finances and labor force will allow.

It would thus appear that the tax cut stimulus sought by industry, cannot be justified on increased rate of expansion unless accompanied by curbing of government spending.

With pensions and other welfare schemes in the offing—health and welfare will cost $120,000,000 more in the new fiscal year than they did in the last one—such government savings do not immediately seem possible.

Until Mr. Gordon can impress upon his colleagues that government economies are the chief way in which Canada can hope to achieve a balanced budget, the present form of deficit financing seems fated to continue.

Before he became finance minister, Mr. Gordon insisted that Canada must move quickly towards a balanced budget. That was the voice of the economist.

The voice of the politician has a different tone. With an election only an adverse vote away, the call for higher social spending and lower taxation at the same time must be making Mr. Gordon's private thoughts about the budget extremely uncomfortable ones.

China in Africa

HAVING SUCCEEDED in establishing itself as one of the major, if not the most, influential political powers in Southeast Asia, Communist China is now making itself felt in Africa.

Certainly during the past year Red China has completely ousted Russia in the struggle for Communist domination in the dark continent. Indeed, informed foreign observers report that the Chinese takeover of affairs Communist in Africa has had the remarkable result of causing a drawing together of Western and Russian diplomats in many of the capitals of the newly-created African nations.

African leaders themselves seem to be well aware of the changing situation in which Peking representatives have played a leading part. President Felix Houphouët-Boigny of the Ivory Coast observed recently: "The Chinese Communist menace is with us. Are we going to allow it to smother the soul of Africa?"

In Madagascar, President Philibert Tsiranana had this to say: "We must organize if we want to prevent the Red Chinese from overrunning the whole of Africa."

Those who fear that the Chinese Communists may be planning a major conquest of Africa point to such recent examples of their ideological incursions into the heart of the continent as the Congo rebellion, the expulsion of the Chinese ambassador from Burundi and the severe reprimand by Uganda's prime minister, Milton Obote, to the Chinese ambassador because he had given financial support to an opposition party.

Even to those who maintain that Communist China poses little or no threat to the established governments, the fact that China has 15 diplomatic representatives in African countries as opposed to only 12 within the whole Communist bloc must appear somewhat significant.

In searching for reasons why the Chinese Communists have been so phenomenally successful in establishing so close a rapport with Africans in so short a time, two main factors appear to have worked to their advantage: (a) though they differ from the African people culturally, they are not white, and (b) they do not adopt a superior attitude in their dealings with the African people, choosing rather to move among the masses and live as the masses live.

In their relationship with the Africans, the Russians who pioneered Communism in Africa failed to do this, preferring rather to live apart as other whites did. Consequently the brand of Communism they were selling failed to appeal to the masses.

Another strong point in favor of the Chinese is that they too are able to claim that they have thrown off the yoke of colonialism, a line of thought most appealing to Africans in every stage of life.

The Western world should now realize that Red China has serious intent in Africa. Though the brand of Communism peddled by the Russians was not acceptable to Africa and thus posed little danger, the Red Chinese brand is a very marketable item.

Mao Tse-tung's recent statement: "... if we can take the Congo, we can take the whole of Africa" should alone be sufficient warning to the West that Africa could become another Viet Nam or Korea in the very near future.

Commonwealth Conference

Canadian Enthusiasm Needed

By HOWARD GREEN

Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

IN A FEW WEEKS another Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference will be convened in London. There will be 21 countries represented and for the first time in many years a British Labor government will be the host.

The process of granting independence to British colonies which can function as nations is almost complete. There remain many small isolated colonies and what is to be done about them is a conundrum. The general feeling is that their citizens must have the same status as those of the major nations like Britain, Canada and India but how to bring this about is another thing entirely.

Southern Rhodesia is the only remaining colony which could properly be classed as a nation when it gains independence. For many decades it has had self-government in most fields and on various occasions its prime minister has attended these conferences. Unfortunately the racial question remains so acute that British governments have refused to grant complete independence unless and until the black population is given a greater share in the conduct of affairs.

The white population is substantial and has most of the wealth but constitutes a small minority. In all of the African countries to the north whites have been forced to give up control. Will this happen in Southern Rhodesia as well?

A few years ago the British set up a Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland in the hope of solving the problem by combining Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia (with its extensive copper deposits) and resource-poor Nyasaland. This federation appeared to be on a firm foundation and it was exceptionally well led by Sir Roy Welensky as prime minister.

However he did not get firm backing from British and nationalist movements in two of the colonies proved very strong with the result that the federation was broken up. Nyasaland became Malawi and Northern Rhodesia adopted the name of Zambia, both under black control. Now they are members of the Commonwealth and of the United Nations.

No doubt the question of Southern Rhodesia will be uppermost in the minds of the nine prime ministers from Africa during the meetings of the conference and they will have backing from the Asian prime ministers as well. However all these leaders know the difficulties the British face in trying to solve the problem and they would do well to remember her fantastic accomplishment in freeing nearly 700 million people since the end of the Second World War.

But in all probability the most important business to come before this conference will be to approve plans for the setting up of a Commonwealth secretariat. Strange as it may seem there has never been such a body but now, with so many members in the organization, it is obvious that there must be some permanent staff to deal with routine matters involved in holding these conferences and in working out solutions to questions which concern all the members.

Last year there was talk of a Canadian being chosen secretary-general but that idea seems to have been dropped. Perhaps the Canadian government declined to provide a man, working on the old Mackenzie King policy toward the Commonwealth—that Canada could be "informed" about policies but not "consulted" because the latter might involve her in some commitment.

Such an attitude is utterly hopeless today. The Commonwealth must always stand for peace and it is the most useful international "club" in existence.

When looking over the field of possible successors to John Diefenbaker as Conservative leader, don't neglect glancing at, better still, seriously examining the potentialities of Michael Starr, MP for the Ottawa-based riding of Ottawa.

This is a man (young, as political leaders go, at 55) who speaks in Parliament for what is becoming known as the "Third Force" in Canada and national politics.

Could be that this "Third Force" might turn out to be the urgently needed ethnic balance wheel between the clashing "main forces," the so-called "two founding races," the English and French Canadians.

Mike Starr, labor minister in the former Diefenbaker government, has moved in as the Conservative leader's desk-mate in the Commons, occupying the seat vacated by Quebec "rebel" Leon Baler.

But there's much more to it than just a shift of seats on the Opposition front bench, for Mike Starr has been talking turns with Nova Scotia's George Nowlan and Manitoba's Gordon Churchill in leading the daily Conservative attack on the government during Diefenbaker's absence from the Commons.

The side-by-side seating with the party leader—a small thing to the average person, maybe, but something of consequence to the status-conscious Commons—plus his shift as Opposition lead-off man, ranks him among the three senior Conservative captains, just possibly the one who counts most.

When John Diefenbaker retires—as retire he will, certainly after the next election and just possibly within the year regardless—this ranking will be an asset unique to Mike Starr in the bidding for the leadership.

For he alone among all the contenders now in sight—Premiers Stanfield of Nova Scotia, Roberts of Ontario and Roblin of Manitoba, and former Conservative cabinet ministers George Hea, David Fulton, Richard Bell and Wallace McCutcheon—will have the backing of the Conservative parliamentary caucus, or at least the biggest part of it.

But Starr's highest asset is that he speaks for Canada's "Third Force." These are the immigrants, the foreign-born, the hundreds of thousands of Ukrainians and Poles who have lived two and three generations in the West, the Finns who have lived that long in Northern Ontario and Manitoba, the Germanics of the other Commonwealth countries that if Britain joined Europe she can hardly hold the Commonwealth together.

Today the Commonwealth increases steadily in importance as the United Nations runs into trouble. It would be a terrible tragedy for mankind if the United Nations were to disintegrate and I do not think this will happen but certainly its prestige has fallen as a result of the failure to do any important business at the 1964 session of the General Assembly.

Like any other organization the Commonwealth will only be as useful as its members make it. It certainly has an important part to play in today's world and I hope the member-nations will show some enthusiasm at the coming conference.

Such an attitude by the Canadian representatives would be particularly helpful because of Canada's senior position in the Commonwealth.

Kenya's Land Problem

Harvest of Freedom

By a Special OFNS Correspondent from Nairobi

NOTHING raises emotions faster in Kenya than the subject of land. It was the moving force behind the Mau Mau movement put down by the British before independence, and, together with chronic unemployment remains the strongest pressure building up behind the present African government, led by President Jomo Kenyatta, in the independent Kenya Republic.

This is why Mr. Jackson Argaine, as minister for lands and settlement, holds the most unenviable portfolio in the cabinet. He is constantly under attack, in Parliament and outside, over the progress achieved in turning over to Africans farms formerly held by Europeans.

As the Kenya government has set its face against any outright expropriation of white settlers' land and aims at an orderly transfer, the process of turning 12,000 square miles of the former White Highlands into African farmland must take time. The pattern throughout has been outright purchase by the government from Europeans willing to sell; then, after careful surveying and sub-division, the re-allocation to approved Africans who agree to repay to the Kenya government the cost of the land over a period of 30 years. The cash down payment is about 10 per cent, and loans are also available for buying livestock, seed and carrying out improvements, such as fencing.

Helped by assistance from the British government, this process has been going on since 1963, gaining momentum as the program desperately strives to keep ahead of political pressure. Unfortunately for the scheme's efficiency, these pressures have influenced policy to such an extent that the advice of agricultural experts has often been ignored.

The result has been that the gigantic operation, the largest and most ambitious of its kind ever undertaken in Africa, has proved in parts to be an outstanding success, while elsewhere it is a dismal failure. Given time, it is possible that the whole operation may end up slightly on the credit side. But today, no one is prepared to forecast how it will all end.

In some areas, such as the Kinangop, the once beautiful, high-altitude wheat-growing country, 50 miles to the west of Nairobi, a complete surrender to political expediency has ended in near disaster. Today, tiny fragmented holdings form a crazy patchwork of unproductiveness, where a few years ago there were rolling acres of wheat reaching to the edge of the thick Aberdare Forest.

Amid the pathetic-looking patches of maize, puny potatoes and bare, sun-scoured earth, are Kikuyu villages, populated by landless, jobless and mostly hopeless people, staying on because there is nowhere else to go, and because there may just be a chance of an odd job or a hand-out to keep the family going for another week or so.

The steady flow of wheat, wool, pork, pyrethrum and potatoes which used to pass through the railway station at Naivasha from this area up to a few years ago has dwindled away. Instead of three trainloads a week, a few trucks cope with the weekly traffic of pyrethrum to the insecticide factory and the pig traffic from the Kinangop farms to the bacon factory at Uplands is now negligible.

Ministry officials, on the other hand, say "Take the trouble to travel a little further from Nairobi and off the tarmac and you'll see a different story." And there are certainly more encouraging signs in places around Thomson's Falls, for instance. Here, the experts were able to get their own way and the land was subdivided into holdings of around 80 acres. Instead of packing in hundreds of landless Africans as on the Kinangop (which was a "crash" program initiated as a political gesture to be completed on the eve of independence), settlement has been on the "low density" plan.

Most of these farmers have had previous experience on the land, either as farm laborers for many years or as smallholders in the more productive African areas. With a basic skill already acquired, they have responded fairly readily to advice provided by the settlement officers, and from holdings of 40 and 50 acres around Ol Kalou, formerly owned by Europeans of South African Africans stock, they are earning incomes of between $800 and $1,200 a year from wheat, pyrethrum, sheep and dairy cattle.

But the low density schemes throughout Kenya can accommodate only a total of 400 African farmers a year—not enough to make an impression upon the hordes of landless, land-hungry people clamoring for what they consider their birthright. As a result the government has had to push ahead at great speed with the "high density" settlement schemes to cope with the mounting pressure. To date, 20,000 African families have been settled on one million acres of land that once was the White Highlands. Probably fewer than 1,000 are on the "low density" schemes. They are the lucky ones.

The others are huddled together on plots of only a few acres, often on land that has been exhausted. They are lucky if they can feed themselves and produce even $30 a year in cash. If only the politicians were prepared to ease the pressure slightly and give existing schemes time to get on their feet, the settlement officials believe they could turn the scales.

Their figures, based on independent surveys, give cause for hope. On "low density" schemes productivity is already 50 per cent up on that of the former European owners. High-density farms, on the other hand, show a drop of 12 per cent in the past 18 months. Officials expect this will alter to a 10 per cent increase within another year, but on the "low density" schemes they expect it to rocket to 75 per cent.

The Kenya government, with this evidence before it, will soon have to decide whether it wants to preserve its present viable economy by calling a halt to the rapid tempo of settlement, or give in to political expediency and risk the collapse of the economy, which is based entirely on agriculture.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

Louis Riel proclaimed the independence of his Métis republic in Manitoba and led his second rebellion 80 years ago today—in 1885.

1877—The composer Ludwig von Beethoven died.

1945—David Lloyd George, Britain's prime minister in the First World War, died.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915—No. 6 company of the Royal Canadian Garrison Artillery left Halifax for duty in St. Lucia, West Indies; French aviators bombed Zepplin sheds at Frezenoy and the Austro-Hungarian withdrew from Lupkow Pass in the Carpathians.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—Mackenzie King's Liberal government won a sweeping victory in Dominion elections; Moscow summoned home the Soviet ambassador to France, at the demand of the French government; and Norway protested against the violation of its territorial waters by British destroyers.

effective members of the elite and ignorant and incapable black generals, as the land sank deeper and deeper into decay. From 1915 to 1934 the country was ruled by the United States Marines, but they confined themselves to keeping order and collecting revenue, and did nothing to put the country on its feet. Their departure satisfied Haitian pride, but it didn't achieve anything else.

Duvalier took power in a discontented country, and dealt with discontent not by repression, mostly at the hands of the tentacles, moustaches, or bogymen, a large body of murderous thugs with complete arbitrary power. He himself lived walled up in his white wedding-casino palace with his armed regular troops to guard his safety.

His action in becoming emperor is a mockery of Haiti's 50 years of greatness, and, like all his actions and gestures, does nothing whatever to affect the country's problems of ignorance, poverty, malnutrition and disease. And there is more tragedy than comedy in all this, because the Haitians are a kindly people, and given half a chance, a cheerful one.

But the subsequent story has been one of stagnation followed by slaughter. Presidents followed each other with bewildering rapidity, alternating between in-

Vodun (Voodoo), which probably started as a political play for the support of the superstitious peasantry, are now believed to go a good deal deeper than that. His self-elevation to the rank of emperor is obviously an appeal to Haitian historical pride in the black Emperor Henri Christophe, who ruled the northern part of the country with great panache from 1807 to 1820, following the freeing of the slaves and the expulsion of the French under the leadership of the brilliant black soldier Toussaint L'Ouverture.

Until then Haiti had been "the brightest jewel in the French crown," but life had sparkled only for the French sugar planters, who thrived on the misery of a huge, brutally-treated slave labor force. In the subsequent revolution—which took its inspiration from the proclamation of liberty, equality and fraternity in France itself—Haiti lived her bloodiest but finest hours, becoming the first free Negro nation in the modern world.

But the subsequent story has been one of stagnation followed by slaughter. Presidents followed each other with bewildering rapidity, alternating between in-

Pet Parade Cancelled By Protests

Anguished cries from animal-lovers have forced the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to withdraw the pet category from its Kiddies' Costume Parade, April 17, during the Victoria Spring Flower Festival.

It was all ready to go. The children could dress up their dogs, cats, rats, goats, or whatever else they had in the way of pets, and enter them in the parade.

The chamber thought this would be a good idea.

Some city animal-lovers did not.

In letters to the chamber of commerce they complained that the children would not know how to control their pets, that the animals would run loose, that some animals might be injured.

The letters poured in, and after an emergency parade committee meeting this week, the committee decided to bow to opponents of the pet category.

Increases In Welfare Considered

Increases in social assistance allowances are being considered by the government, the legislature was told Thursday.

Both Welfare Minister Black and Premier Bennett gave this assurance as members on both sides of the House continued to demand increases to meet the rising cost of living.

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby) demanded an immediate across-the-board increase of 20 per cent in social assistance payments.

Alex Matthew (SC—Vancouver Centre) was one of several government backbenchers to support the idea of a raise.

"We know as well as you do," he told opposition members, "that a mother and one child cannot live on $103 a month, which is what they now get."

The legislature took almost five hours to approve social welfare's estimated expenditures of $35,081,023.

No Walkout Contemplated

Heavy construction workers on Vancouver Island are at the point of hard bargaining but they are not contemplating strike action, says a spokesman for labor.

"We are now in the position where we start bargaining," said Joseph Whiteford, representing Construction and General Laborers, Tunnel and Rock Workers, Operating Engineers, and Teamsters.

Cargo of Gold Flown to Paris

PARIS (UPI)—A special Boeing jet cargo aircraft arrived here Thursday from New York with 1½ tons of gold aboard for the Bank of France. It was unloaded under the strictest security precautions at Orly airport. Observers assumed the gold was part payment for President de Gaulle's latest gold-dollar swap.

Opposition Leader Strachan got no satisfaction Thursday when he sought information on the plight of social assistance cases under mini-medicaid.

He wanted to know what special assistance, if any, the government was planning for 18,000 recipients of social welfare who have no free medical cards.

LOWEST INCOME

It seemed impossible that even with the government's new medical grants, these people at the bottom of the lower income groups would be able to stretch "their already meagre" allowance to cover health insurance, said Mr. Strachan.

Welfare Minister Black, whose estimates were under discussion in the House, declined to answer the question.

BLACK MARK

Mr. Strachan said the welfare picture in this province was a black mark on the record of this government. The numbers on social welfare had risen steadily during the past 12½ years, he said.

"Employment has been going up and up, as well," retorted Premier Bennett.

SOLUTION

He said the government agrees with the NDP that full employment is the solution to social welfare problems. The best hope of achieving this goal lay within the "constructive" policies of Social Credit rather than in socialism, the premier said.

Low Tide, High Smell Threat to Coast Guard

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—A 40-foot-long whale is threatening to knock the Coast Guard base out of commission.

Just by being dead.
Crew members aboard the cutter Mallow discovered it Wednesday. They said the whale must have been there several days, but went unnoticed until a low tide and high smell coincided.
It is so entangled in pilings and cross beams that officials said they did not know how to get rid of it.

Nor did they know how the creature became so entangled. The base is in the Columbia River, 15 miles upstream from the ocean.

Witness Says:

Withholding Of Assay Approved

TORONTO (CP)—T. F. Cole, secretary of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd., testified Thursday representatives of the Ontario Securities Commission and the Toronto Stock Exchange agreed the company should not publish assays of its controversial exploration work near Timmins "before the hole was completed."

Mr. Cole told the royal commission investigating the price movements last summer of Windfall stock that this decision was taken July 14—during the peak trading period of Windfall shares—at a meeting attended by Windfall officials and representatives of the OSC and the TSE.

FULL DISCUSSION
"There was a full discussion of the procedure to be adopted concerning the unassayed drill cores, the handling of results of the completed hole and the influence of press releases upon the market," he said in a prepared statement.

"Both the representatives of the commission and the exchange agreed that it was proper procedure not to have assays made and published before the hole was completed."

Mr. Cole's statement also attacked testimony given earlier by prospector Ralph Allerton, who had charged Windfall directors with "dereliction of duty."

Nazi Hunt Extension Approved

BONN (UPI)—The West German lower house of parliament Thursday voted overwhelmingly to extend the 20-year statute of limitations on Nazi war crimes for another 4½ years.

The action triggered a government crisis.
Two hours after the Bundestag voted 344 to 96, with four abstentions, for a bill which had the effect of moving the deadline on Nazi war crimes forward from May 8, 1965, to Jan. 1, 1970, Justice Minister Bucher handed his resignation to Chancellor Erhard.

Bucher and his Free Democratic Party, junior members of the Erhard coalition government, had opposed extension of the statute of limitations on Nazi crimes in any form.

While Guerrillas Bombed

Viet Nam Plague Spreads

SAIGON (UPI)—American jet fighter-bombers and Sky-raidiers Thursday pounded scores of Communist Viet Cong guerrilla positions in South Viet Nam. At the same time health authorities disclosed an outbreak of a centuries-old killer—the plague—in Central Viet Nam.

A military spokesman said

American planes flew more than 70 combat sorties against guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam in the past 48 hours.

The intensive strikes in the south followed four straight days of U.S. and South Vietnamese air attacks on military installations in North Viet Nam. There were apparently no U.S. or South Vietnamese raids against the North Thursday for the first time since Sunday.

The new health danger was reported by the Vietnamese health ministry which also confirmed the possible presence of a cholera outbreak in Saigon.

A ministry spokesman said the ministry has received no official statistics on the number of sick or dead in the plague, but said the local Vietnamese press was "probably close to the mark" in reporting 38 cases and 12 deaths attributed to the dread disease.

The government news agency reported 17 cases and five deaths from plague in Ban Me Thuot, 165 miles northeast of Saigon, and seven more deaths in Quang Ngai province, the coastal area 330 miles to the northeast.

Nine other plague cases were reported in Central Viet Nam but were not confirmed.

This Yo-Yo No Toy

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (UPI)—An American astronaut says the life-line used by the Russian who "walked" in space could prove to be more of a hazard than a safety device.

Major Edwin Aldrin Jr. of Montclair, N.J., said the United States is trying to develop a manoeuvring device to be worn by astronauts which will make a safety line unnecessary.

"The problem with being attached is that if you give a jerk on the line, you're going to move at a good rate of velocity," he said.

The astronaut would risk injury by smashing into the capsule or may have his line whipped around the capsule, like a yo-yo, he said.

Festival Queen Will Get Double Crown

Most queens are happy with just one coronation, but the queen of the Victoria Spring Flower Festival will be crowned twice the same day, April 10.

The first coronation will be at 1:30 p.m. when judges will proclaim the Mayfair Queen, at a fashion show in the Mayfair Shopping Centre.

The Mayfair Queen will then travel to Centennial Square, where at about 3:40 p.m. she will be crowned queen of the Victoria Spring Flower Festival.

SEVEN ENTRIES

So far, there are seven entries for the contest.

Ceremonies will begin the day before when the contestants will appear before judges at a luncheon in the Imperial Inn.

When she is crowned, the Spring Flower Festival queen will be presented with a sceptre. There is as yet no sceptre to be presented, Fred Usher, of the chamber's festival committee said Thursday.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

"We have got to get something special for this doll," he said.

A. G. Coning of the festival queen committee said the "something special" will be a sceptre hand-carved of native B.C. wood.

He said the sceptre will not only be beautiful, it will be symbolic of the importance of the forest products industry.

The sceptre is being carved by Rudy Beyfort, Oak Bay wood carver.

SERENADE TOO

Serenading the queen at the Centennial Square coronation will be a band contributed by the Victoria Musicians Association, made up of members of the Ill Winds Orchestra, and other association members.

The queen will be presented with a $100 bond by the Mayfair Merchants Association.

Queen candidates are: Marlene Dodsworth, 2638 Foul Bay Road; Marguerite Smith, 114 Wildwood; Irma Thompson, 628 Dallas; Adele Smirl, 248 Michigan; Joan Whitmore, 2818 Craigowan; Sharon Ball, 1155 Loggia Place; Patricia Boden, 200 Regina; and Sharon Loro, 58 Kingham Place.

Pension Study Over

OTTAWA (CP) — The mammoth Canada Pension Plan bill finally got through its committee stage study in the Commons Thursday night.

The last clause of the bill to gain approval, the title, had occupied the House ever since last Wednesday, when the Creditists won wide opposition support for their contention that the bill should be held up until translation into French of all hearings of a joint Senate-Commons committee was completed.

Before completion of the committee stage, which took 20 days, the Creditists served notice that they will propose an amendment to the plan at third reading—final stage of the bill in the Commons preliminary to its dispatch to the Senate.

Pulp Mill Plans Announced

CHRISTINA LAKE, B.C. — Three Vancouver businessmen have announced plans for a $40-500,000 pulp mill in this small centre near Grand Forks.

A. L. Jordan, president of Rupert Enterprises Ltd., said the plan depends on provincial government approval of an application for a 6,000,000 acre pulpwood harvesting licence area.

He said the mill would employ 800 men.

APPLIED FOR LICENCE

Mr. Jordan said the company has applied for a licence for an area embracing Princeton, Keremeos, Oliver, Osoyoos, Kelowna, Vernon, Armstrong, Enderby, Salmon Arm, Midway, Greenwood, Grand Forks, Cascade, Christina Lake, Rossland, Trail, Fruitvale, Salmo and Apex.

He said the application to the provincial lands and forests department was made after a two-year feasibility study.

Precise location of the proposed mill was not disclosed, but the directors said it will not be directly on the shores of the lake.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Is Chevelle by Chevrolet a big small car or a small big car?

Yes!

Sorry we can't be more definite, but you see, Chevelle's size is relative. If you're used to driving a "big big" car, you'll be smitten by Chevelle's convenient 115-inch wheelbase, by the easy way it slips between parking meters, by its nimble manners in heavy traffic and by its readiness to fit into your garage. On the other hand, if you've been confined to a "small small" car, you'll love Chevelle's choice of five convenient body styles, 13 beautiful models and 12 responsive power teams; you'll glory in Chevelle's wide-shouldered family-sized interiors, its huge trunk and the downright luxury of its Full Coil suspension ride.

Actually, there's really only one way to answer the question of Chevelle's size. Try one on at your local Chevrolet dealer's. We're sure you'll find a Chevelle that fits you and your budget just beautifully.

Recording Artist Business Goal of City Entertainer

By BOB PETHICK

A Victoria entertainer who made it on several television shows plans to open a recording business in the city.

Peter Kelch, 1044 Burdett, who left Victoria three years ago for the celluloid city returned here recently to formulate plans for his recording company, Terra Records Ltd.

He started a recording company in Hollywood, but the company folded when he ran into distribution problems.

Back in Victoria, Peter is looking forward to starting a business which will soon be heading on the road to success.

"Canada is only starting in the young recording artist business," says the young composer-singer, who plans to put out his first record here within three months with the Victoria group, the Pharaohs.

"I want to put them in the top spot in Canada," says Peter. He will sing Cry On My Shoulder backed up by the Pharaohs in what he hopes to be his first hit in Canada.

He is also interested in other talent in the Greater Victoria area.

But Peter isn't kidding himself that starting a recording business is going to be any cinch.

His first studio will be set up in his father's basement at 1044 Burdett.

"That way I won't have to pay any rent," he says.

Emily Carr Residence

Ottawa Holds Key to Home

The Greater Victoria Historic Sites Foundation is waiting for the high sign from the federal government, before it buys the historic 207 Government Street home of Victoria artist Emily Carr.

The "high sign" would be some indication that the federal government will buy the home from the foundation, after the foundation buys the home from owner Victoria Liberal MP David Groos.

The federal government cannot buy the home outright, because MPs are forbidden by law to sell property to the government.

Foundation member Dr. Hugh Forsman said Mr. Groos informed the foundation by letter that the government is interested in buying the property, but so far the foundation has not heard from the government directly.

Until it receives word from the government, the foundation will not buy the property.

Vice-President Makes Plea

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Nicholson told the Commons Thursday that U.S. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey and the governor of the state of Minnesota have made representations to the Canadian government on behalf of Prof. Mulford Q. Sibley.

The University of Minnesota professor was barred from entering Canada last Friday as a result of a speaking engagement with the Voice of Women's organization in Winnipeg.

In Minneapolis, Prof. Sibley said he will go to Winnipeg Saturday for an immigration inquiry. The University of Minnesota political science professor said he will be represented at the hearing by Dale Gibson, a Manitoba law school professor. The hearing date was set after Canadian Immigration Minister John Nicholson reported on the Sibley case before the House of Commons.

Meanwhile, it was reported here Thursday Prof. Sibley may fill an exchange teaching post in India late this year.

Wouldn't Prosecute

Favreau 'Skipped' File on Denis

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Favreau acknowledged in the witness box Thursday that he decided Sept. 18 against prosecuting an aide to a cabinet colleague for attempted bribery without reading the full file of the RCMP investigation into the Rivard affair.

He told the Dorion inquiry it would have "been so easy for me to wash my hands of the affair by laying a charge" against Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to then Immigration Minister Tremblay.

CHARGE DISASTROUS

The 47-year-old justice minister maintained that no judge or jury would have returned a guilty verdict against Denis.

Besides, he said, the consequences of a charge would have been "disastrous" for Denis, "a young man and head of a family" who had lost his job as a result of the police investigation and had to find new employment.

ALLOWED TO RESIGN

Denis was allowed to resign effective Oct. 15 after Mr. Tremblay refused to grant his request for sick leave.

Denis has been accused by Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, attorney for the U.S. government in the extradition hearings against suspected narcotics conspirator Lucien Rivard, of offering him $20,000 to arrange Rivard's release on bail. Rivard escaped March 2 from Montreal's Bordeaux jail and has vanished.

WAS 6TH WITNESS

Mr. Favreau was witness No. 6 at the 36th day of the hearings by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion's commission into Mr. Lamontagne's allegations of attempted bribery and political coercion against four ministerial aides.

Officially, the inquiry adjourned to April 5 at Quebec City for final argument by the some 20 lawyers.

RECALL WITNESS?

However, Chief Justice Dorion said the commission may reconvene Tuesday for a day or two. He declined to say whether other witnesses will be summoned but it is understood the commission is discussing internally whether to recall recalled murder suspect Robert Gignac.

Gignac has been charged with perjury as a result of his testimony before the commission in January at Montreal. There have been reports he wants to testify again.

GO-BETWEEN

Gignac was one of the go-betweens in attempts to arrange bail for Rivard. Liberal organizer Guy Mason testified Gignac told him $20,000 has been raised for the Liberal party—provided Rivard's extradition to Texas to face the dope charges was blocked.

Mr. Favreau, in the witness box for five hours, was asked whether he saw an RCMP report which mentioned the possibility of a conspiracy to get Rivard out of Bordeaux on bail.

"Not that I know of," he replied. Ross Drouin, Conservative party counsel, then produced an Aug. 12 RCMP report which contained a notation to this effect.

"I must have seen it though it is quite possible I didn't," Mr. Favreau said.

Chief Justice Dorion asked whether Mr. Favreau had considered the possibility of laying conspiracy charges.

NOT CONSIDERED

"It never entered my mind," Mr. Favreau replied.

Paul Jolin, New Democratic Party counsel, referred to an RCMP account of a police-monitored telephone conversation Aug. 20 between Denis and Mr. Lamontagne which quoted Denis as saying he would go to Mr. Favreau and tell him who was behind the whole affair.

"Did you try to find out who was behind it?" Mr. Jolin asked.

"Those words didn't strike me," Mr. Favreau said.

Mr. Favreau stressed repeatedly he had taken his Sept. 18 decision on his own responsibility at the end of a 75-minute meeting with Mr. Tremblay and the RCMP's two top officers—Commissioner G. B. McClellan and Deputy Commissioner J. R. Lemieux.

NOT NECESSARY

"If I can't reach a decision as justice minister, I might just as well resign right now," the minister said.

Asked whether he had asked his officials for expert legal opinion on the case, Mr. Favreau said: "I didn't feel it necessary. It isn't the minister's task to consult his officials but the task of the officials to consult the minister."

FULFILLED DUTY

"I reached a decision that satisfied me. I fulfilled my duties completely as attorney-general of Canada in exactly the same way that other ministers had interpreted their duties in cases more serious than this one."

Mr. Favreau said he read the seven-page RCMP summary of the police investigation which recommended against prosecution. But he hadn't read all the RCMP accounts of interviews with the nine persons interrogated.

TIPPED OFF

Later, Mr. Favreau said he was tipped off Nov. 19 Conservative MP Erik Nielsen might spill the whole affair in the Commons by Antoine Goffin, Mr. Lamontagne's employer and one-time law partner of Lionel Chevrier, former Liberal justice minister.

"It never occurred to me my opinion on Denis or anything else in the case could lead to criticism in the House," Mr. Favreau said.

"It never occurred to me an MP would dare to make a declaration under parliamentary immunity when the file did not justify charges and when Mr. Nielsen had not consulted me."

Expansion To Aid Delinquents

Services of the office of the province's juvenile delinquency coordinator will probably be expanded within the next year, Welfare Minister Black told the legislature Thursday.

Mr. Black said more staff will be added to expand work outside the metropolitan areas of Vancouver and Victoria.

He was specifically replying to Mrs. Lois Hagen (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood), who criticized the office for doing little to curb delinquency outside the two metropolitan areas.

Mrs. Hagen suggested the office be abolished or absorbed into the department's family services branch.

She also rapped discotheques—teen-age dance halls—because children are spending too much money and time in them.

Airport Aid Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—An expansion of federal aid for the development of local airports was announced in the Commons Thursday by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

It will provide up to $1,000,000 a year in grants.

Aim of the program is to help finance airport projects in communities across the country that do not have regular commercial airline services. Those with airline service have their airports either operated or directly subsidized by the transport department.

Under the former policy, the federal grant was restricted to 50 per cent of an airport's cost and a $100,000 limit.

We broke the big rule with the Renault 4. We put all the money into its engineering. Not body design. Or fancy trappings. We did this because a lot of people want stamina in a car, rather than status. This they get with the Renault 4. Its suspension is so good the car doesn't even need a road. The body is fully dipped against corrosion.

You get a powerful heater/defroster and instant cold weather starting. And you never have to grease the Renault 4. The Renault 4 gives up to 45 miles per gallon at 60 miles per hour. It carries four big people comfortably. Or two big people and 500 lbs. of what-have-you. So take your kids to school, go hunting, skiing—use it as a delivery van. The Renault 4 will do all this, on the highway or off, for years (many people have driven Renault 4s over 70,000 miles without even minor repairs). Now, what does this kind of performance cost you? $1,695. Renault 4.

Sid Abel? Color Him Happy

DETROIT (UPI) — Color Sid Abel happy for the thrill he got out of coaching his first league championship team.

Color the Detroit Red Wings green for the bonus money they'll receive for winning the National Hockey League's regular season title.

After watching his club clinch its first title under his coaching, Abel admitted, "This is one of the happiest moments of my life."

In his seventh season as coach, Abel had never directed the Wings above a fourth place finish. He conceded that it was "a team effort all the way" and would only single out individual players for special recognition when pressed to do so by the dozen reporters that surrounded him in the Detroit dressing room after the Wings' title clinching victory over New York.

"When you analyze any hockey team, you have to start with the goalie," Abel said. "Roger Crozier was sensational for us this year. I said at the start of the year I thought he'd be a great one, now I'm sure of it."

In a bold pre-season move, Abel allowed veteran netminder Terry Sawchuk to be claimed on waivers by Toronto, making the 22-year-old Crozier his top goalie. Crozier, the leading contender for rookie of the year honors, leads the league in shutouts with six and has a 2.4 goals-against average, while playing in all but one half of one game.

Red Wings Nail Down First; Set Home Ice Win Record

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings last night claimed their first national hockey league regular season championship in eight years as they dumped the New York Rangers, 7-4.

Alex Delvecchio pumped in three goals and Norm Ullman added two as the Wings also coach Sid Abel, who previously had only been able to direct his club as high as fourth place.

First place is worth $2,250 per man.

HOME RECORD
The victory was Detroit's 14th straight at Olympia Stadium, breaking the mark of 13 in a row set in 1943-44 by Montreal.

Delvecchio notched the first goal of the game in the opening period, then like Ullman connected for two in the middle period as the Wings scored four times. Paul Henderson added the other first period score while Eddie Joyal hit in the final period. Earl Ingarfield scored twice and Jean Ratelle and Doug Robinson once for the Rangers.

TOP SCORERS
Ullman's two goals boosted his total to 41 and gave him the league lead in that department. He leads Chicago's Bobby Hull by two goals, but trails the Hawks' Stan Mikita in total scoring by five points. Mikita has 57 points.

Delvecchio, who also picked up an assist, boosted his goal total to 25 and his point total to 66 to take over fifth place in the individual scoring derby.

The win left Detroit with 75 points, compared to 81 for the second-place Montreal Canadiens. Both teams have two games to play, but if Montreal won both and Detroit lost its pair, the Wings would still rule as champions for having the most victories (38-37).

It was the club's 13th title in its 39-year-old history, but the first since the 1956-57 campaign. And it was the first under the seven-year reign of

Semis Start On Thursday

MONTREAL (CP) — The Stanley Cup hockey playoffs open Thursday, April 1, in Montreal and Detroit.

The Red Wings settled the playoff schedule Thursday night by downing New York Rangers 7-4 in Detroit to clinch the National Hockey League pennant and win the right to meet the third-place Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-final A play-off series.

Montreal Canadiens, who have clinched second place in the final standings, will meet the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs in the semi-final B series.

Both semi-finals, as well as the finals which will begin no later than Saturday, April 17, are best-of-seven affairs.

The semi-finals will be a replay of last spring's playoffs. Last year Toronto eliminated Montreal and then won its third straight Stanley Cup by downing Detroit, semi-final victors over Chicago, in the finals.

Following is the schedule for the two semi-final series:

Bruins to Keep Patrick, Schmidt

BOSTON (AP) — Owner Weston Adams of Boston Bruins said Thursday both coach Milt Schmidt and general manager Lynn Patrick will be back with the National Hockey League team next season but he said the team's operating setup will be revised.

Adams issued a statement on reports that Patrick would be fired and maybe Schmidt as well. Adams said the new setup would be announced "just as soon as possible after our last game Sunday night."

Eastern Stars Win at Squash

A touring group of Ontario and Quebec squash players took the odd-game of a seven-game series with Victoria players at the Victoria Racquets Club Broughton Street court yesterday.

Victoria's team was augmented by Vancouver's Dave Foster and Ned Larsen of Shawigan Lake.

The visitors, known as the Jesters, a name given to top squash players, were beaten, five games to two in Vancouver. In yesterday's competition, Don Leggett defeated Foster, 3-2; Barney Lawrence beat Larsen, 3-1; Victoria's Dr. Kemble Greenwood beat Jester captain Bill Burk, 3-1; Dr. Bob Houston, Victoria, downed Lorne Webster, 3-2; Ted Tilden, Jesters, blanked Dr. George Thompson, 3-0; Bud McKay, Jesters, stopped George Evans, 3-0; and Victoria's Doug Hawkes beat Ian Stewart, 3-0.

Fourth Straight Win Spahn, Mets Beat Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ageless Warren Spahn hit a homer, drove in another run and pitched the New York Mets to a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the New York Yankees Thursday.

The 43-year-old left-hander, the Mets' pitching coach who was acquired from Milwaukee, allowed only one run and four hits, struck out three and walked the same number in a six inning pitching stint at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

It was the fourth victory in a row for the Mets, who have finished last in each of their three years in the National League. The Yankees have lost eight of their last nine.

Ralph Terry, meanwhile, became the first major league pitcher to go nine innings in the spring training session, hurling the Cleveland Indians to a 6-1 triumph over a Los Angeles Angels team in Tucson, Ariz.

In other exhibitions, the other half of the Angels squad beat Boston 8-4 in Scottsdale, Ariz.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Noted author and conservationist Roderick Haig-Brown disputed the claim that Vancouver Island offers good fishing to tourists, when he spoke to the annual convention of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Campbell River this week.

"It is not that good. It is about one-fifth of the catch of a few years ago," he said.

He claimed the fishing grounds at Campbell River have been ruined by powerboats and airplanes and said: "We are spoiling our freshwater fishing, with the total loss of Elk River and the impending loss of the Heber. We have turned three major lakes into a reservoir. We have brought untold damage to rivers, and fishing is now much better in some United States, such as Montana."

He lamented that Strathcona Park "is already damaged beyond recognition and there is no prospect of improvement of our park on the inadequate budget of the recreation department."

He said we are paying the cost of heedless development right now. "We should be taking care of the island, instead of exploiting it," he maintained.

Multiple use of forest land is a misused word, he charged. "This does not mean allowing fishermen and hunters in forest land. We have only single use here," he said.

More work must be done on pollution, Haig-Brown said.

"The law against pollution calls for a $250 fine which is not much for a big business to pay," the Campbell River magistrate explained. "Pollution prevention should be part of the cost of being in business."

He appealed for nature to be left alone in parks and said he did not think the removal of windfalls and snags from parks necessary. He spoke against reforestation of burn-over areas because it would change the natural ecology of the park. Only exotic pests that have been introduced should be eradicated, as natural pests will take care of themselves, he said.

He considered strips of trees left along streams by loggers as practical measure and said that much of the blowdown could be eliminated by studying contours. Such river protection would not give flow control, but it would provide shade and insect life, he said.

Haig-Brown didn't think Japanese and Russian fishermen are hurting our salmon. He explained that all the result of the North Pacific tagging have not shown significant numbers of Canadian salmon in their catch.

It is pretty difficult to give much of a fishing report this week, other than to say most fishing has been in a slump, except for the odd bright spot.

The mouth of Tod Inlet has been giving up a few 10 to 12 and up to 20-pound springs and grise are being taken from little pockets all over the inlet, although bite has been spotty.

Gordy Lamont reports a kill of shrimp in Finlayson Arm during a recent bitter freezing night and this could account for a finicky bite of blues.

Big springs seem to be moving around to Saanich Inlet. Dave Angus has been getting some off Coal Island near Sidney and Jack Lenfesty was lucky spin-casting off the tip of Saanichton Spit. Gordy Ball got a big one off Beecher, but it took a lot of fishing time.

It has been pretty cold for lake fishing and the cold evenings appear to have set the bite right back from where it was a couple of weeks ago.

But, Quamichan Lake, near Duncan, is a bright spot. It is producing fairly well.

In the Moose children's derby on Quamichan Sunday success was pretty good for the 50 entrants. In the 12 and under group Debby Schiller was first with a 2:12-pounder; Danny Fielden second with a 2:4-pounder and Kenneth Schiller third with a 1:7-pounder. In the 12 to 17 years group Terry Schiller was first with a 2:15-pounder; Gordy Gammie second with a 2:5-pounder and Randy Brenton third with a 2:1-pounder.

The Schillers used a boat which accounted in part for their winning fish. A number two silver Gibbs spoon was best producer. Fuller Lake is fair.

Just about all rivers contain steelhead, but most rivers are very low and clear and it requires better than average skill to catch the steelies.

Rain and warmer nights will help all freshwater fishing.

Curling Score: 2-0

WINNIPEG — Swift Current skip Glen Newlin and his Saskatchewan mates defeated Dr. Peter Lyons of New Brunswick, 2-0, in what may be a record low score for a 10-end curling match in the national Elks bonspiel Thursday.

Newton won the toss, blanked the first two ends and was forced to take a singleton on the third. Lyons' strategy then was to blank the next six ends.

Newton's last rock on the 10th end lay at the back of the four-foot ring and Lyons elected to draw in front and force an extra end. He was three inches light.

Too Much Curling for Seniors?

PORT ARTHUR — Three rounds of curling in one day may be too much for players in the Canadian seniors' bonspiel. That was one suggestion after a rash of upsets dotted the ninth round here Thursday night. Leo Johnson of Winnipeg, the front-runner, was one victim, losing 10-9 to New Brunswick. Alberta and Newfoundland, close at hand, also were beaten and Prince Edward Island and British Columbia moved up into a tie for second place.

Johnson has a 7-2 record. Fred Tinning of Vancouver, the B.C. skip, has his team rolling again at 6-2 after defeating Saskatchewan, 10-8. Prince Edward Island's Wendell MacDonald and his rink also are 6-2, after a 12-2 victory over the Nova Scotia entry.

B.C. and Prince Edward Island clash this morning while Manitoba has the bye. Final round is this afternoon.

Alberta, Newfoundland and Ontario all are 5-3, New Brunswick is 4-4, Quebec and Northern Ontario 3-5, Saskatchewan 1-7, and Nova Scotia winless in nine games.

European Skiers Capture Trophies

SUN VALLEY, Idaho—Europeans walked off with both major titles at the Harriman Cup ski races here this week. Marie Gotschel of France emerging as women's champion and Karl Schranz of Austria as men's titleholder.

Miss Gotschel won both the downhill and slalom to edge Jean Saubert of the United States and sister Christine Gotschel of France.

Nancy Greene of Roseland, B.C., finished 12th in the women's slalom and Karen Dokka of Vancouver was 16th.

Frenchmen Michel Arpin and Jean-Claude Killy finished one-two in the men's slalom and Schranz was third. Schranz was awarded the Harriman Cup from his times in both the slalom and downhill, which he won. Killy was second in the downhill and Arpin was 20th.

Rod Hebron of Vancouver was the only Canadian to finish one run in the slalom.

Lefties Seek Assistance

Left-handed golfers who are playing a national championship tournament here in July, would be grateful for a little financial assistance from the city.

In a letter to the mayor and alderman, the B.C. Association of Left-Handed Golfers says that about 300 entries are expected in the competition to be played July 18 to 22.

Activities are being planned with wives and guests, there should be about 700 visitors to the city.

Total cost will be $20,500 of which about $10,500 will be raised by entry fees.

The balance will be raised through contributions, the letter says, and if the city could help out the association would be "most pleased and grateful."

'Christ Only Fainted on Cross'

LONDON (Reuters) — Jesus Christ did not die on the cross, a spokesman for an international research group said today.

Kurt Berna, president of the International Foundation for the Holy Shroud, said research into the holy shroud at Turin proves unequivocally that Christ did not die on the cross.

The International Foundation for the Holy Shroud was established in Zurich, Switzerland, in March, 1964.

The foundation was formed to propagate the results of research on the holy shroud, a stretch of white cloth, containing lifelike, shadowy impressions of the front and back of a human form.

Many believe the shroud, kept in the Roman Catholic cathedral in the north Italian automobile manufacturing city, covered the body of Christ when he was taken down from the cross. Berna said Dr. J. G. Bourne, a senior anaesthetist at a London Hospital, suggested in a recent Sunday newspaper article that Jesus, in fact, fainted on the cross, was believed dead, and recovered after a period of coma.

Bourne put forward his views, based on investigation of cases of patients fainting under general anaesthesia while in the dentist's chair.

Berna said new discoveries made by the foundation were set out in a book Resurrected in Flesh and Bone, published in German, in Switzerland. An English translation is being prepared, he said.

The foundation's research had been concerned with the shroud, he said, adding "the conclusions drawn from the search into this piece of evidence prove unequivocally that Jesus Christ did not die on the cross."

In the book, the foundation tells how it commissioned a series of photographs of the death shroud, which, it said, had itself acted as a photographic negative to show the bloodstains from the wounds on the body of Christ, stains made when the shroud was enfolded over Christ's body after his removal from the cross.

Had it been a real corpse, there would have been no bloodstains, as a corpse has no longer any blood pressure and therefore no fresh blood could flow from the wounds, the book states.

TESTS NEEDED

Bourne said at his home Berna sent him a copy of the book but he returned it because he cannot read German.

"I could not possibly comment as a scientist," he said. "One would want to have the stains on the shroud tested for blood, for example, to make sure it really was blood. I cannot really express an opinion at all on his evidence."

Bourne said: "I am a Christian myself." What he had suggested in the newspaper article, he said, was a reasonable explanation of the crucifixion and resurrection, as an alternative to the orthodox view that a miraculous happening took place.

Soviet Farm Program Will Cost Billions

MOSCOW (UPI)—Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev has proposed an investment of $78,100,000,000 to boost agriculture, well-informed sources said Thursday. He charged that agriculture "stagnated" during the last year of Nikita Khrushchev's premiership.

Brezhnev told a closed door meeting of the Communist Party's ruling central committee this amount should be poured into the nation's flagging farming over the next five years, the sources said. The amount — 71,000,000,000 rubles—was said to equal the entire agricultural outlay for 19 postwar years.

He criticized the development of agriculture under Khrushchev.

But, Brezhnev said the decision taken in 1953 under Khrushchev's initiatives to open up vast tracts of "virgin lands" in Kazakhstan had been "very important."

How would they like Canada's Gold Keg Beer?
There's only one way to find out:

Operation Gold Keg!

At London Airport we unloaded a cargo of Gold Keg Beer. Next stop: London's pubs.

Gold Keg Beer has become remarkably popular in B.C., and we should be happy about it.

But, being human, we've always wondered how it would stand up in a British pub, crowded with beer-drinking Englishmen.

So we airlifted a cargo of Gold Keg to England, and we're going to find out once and for all.

We're going to test it on the world's toughest critics: Englishmen.

Will they like Gold Keg's deep, mellow, good flavour?

Will they like its dark, inviting colour? And its delightful bouquet?

Will they think it's as good as the best English beers?

Operation Gold Keg hopes to find out. We will keep you posted.

UNION BAY — The chains of dark-ages feudalism bind the residents of this community, says a New Democratic candidate.

Neville Shanks, NDP provincial candidate in Comox riding, told a meeting in the former coal centre Wednesday:

"People here are living under a latter-day feudal system totally unacceptable by any modern social standard."

He said this situation is one of many in the province that would quickly be cleared up by a government "that really had the welfare of the people at heart."

He pointed out Canadian Collieries Resources Limited, the owners of the land in which Union Bay stands, sold houses to the residents, but did not sell the property underneath the dwellings.

"Rent is paid to the company for the land, and improvement taxes are paid to the government through the company," he said.

Mr. Shanks told the Union Bay residents: "The result is the owners of the homes are not eligible for the homeowners' grant, they pay school taxes but cannot vote on school issues, and pay improvement district taxes but have no voice in the operation of the district."

He told the meeting another "almost unbelievable" feature of the lease is that homeowners, on 90 days' notice, may be required to pick up their houses and move away.

Mr. Shanks said it is an intolerable situation which must be cleared up at once.

"Pressure should be put on the mining company to clean away the old coal loading wharf," he said.

He said the look of the whole community is marred by "this gaunt and dirty skeleton."

Gas Well Fight Almost Ended

EDSON, Alta. (CP)—A long and difficult battle to seal off a dangerous gas well neared an end Thursday night with word that leaking natural gas and poisonous hydrogen sulphide had been "completely shut in."

Crews succeeded Thursday in closing off all above-ground leakage and all that remained was to continue dumping chemically-treated mud and water solution down the well casing.

NANAIMO—Dr. John Hunt of Victoria, president of the Canadian Diabetic Association, will speak at an international project work shop at the health centre 7:30 p.m. March 31.

Perrault Raps Socreds On Jones, Bank Issues

DUNCAN — Provincial government refusal to tell the legislature why it is firing B.C. purchasing commissioner George E. P. Jones was attacked here in a speech by provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault.

At a meeting organized by the Duncan Liberal Association Wednesday night, Mr. Perrault said, "We are being asked to fire the man from his job, and although the government knows why, it refuses to give a satisfactory answer."

Also blasted by Mr. Perrault was Socred policy on the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

Mr. Perrault charged Premier Bennett "attacks the Liberals in vicious form, but our position is to see a Bank of British Columbia implemented."

Lamb Club Visits Farm

COBBLE HILL — Members of the Metchoin 4-H Lamb Club will travel to Cobble Hill on Sunday, weather permitting, to observe the sheep farm of Mr. and Mrs. Hamish Sibbald, of Chapman Road.

Mrs. Sibbald said other 4-H groups will also be visiting the farm in the near future, some from as far away as the mainland and Washington.

Mrs. Turpel lived in Victoria for 61 years.

She was the widow of Samuel Turpel.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Rena Brachet and Mrs. Roma Allen, both of Victoria; three sons, Jack M. and Earl W., both of Victoria, and Harry G. of Mill Bay; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; nieces and nephews; and her sister, Mrs. Charles Myers, of Victoria.

Funeral services will be held by McCall Brothers Funeral Chapel at 3 p.m. Monday, Rev. R. Morris officiating.

Around Town

People Must Govern

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Thursday he believes citizens of North Saanich must soon assume the responsibility of governing the community.

But the minister doesn't believe "there has been sufficient discussion among the citizens of the area for them to have arrived" at any decision.

He said North Saanich can unite with Sidney or Central Saanich, amalgamate on its own or form a union of Sidney, Central Saanich and North Saanich.

The government's mini-metro legislation will seriously damage relations between the province and municipalities, the Saanich Information Committee charged Thursday.

Committee president Gordon Campbell urged the government to withdraw the controversial bill—which has already gone through second reading—until all municipal councils in B.C. have had an opportunity to study it.

The bill, which permits the establishment of regional or joint services boards between municipalities, was recently amended to enable affected communities to hold referendums on whether they wish to enter joint services.

Frank Calder (NDP—Atlin) told the legislature Thursday night he won't take sides in the dispute over the Tilkum. He said the stripping of his native West Valley of its Indian pole made his people bitter about such issues.

"If the authorities say the Maritime Museum is the best place to display the Tilkum, I'll accept that," he said.

A grant of $1,800 has been awarded by Canada Council to Victoria University student Robert Chernoff for studies toward a master's degree in economics. He is to graduate in honor economics this spring and may attend university of his choice in Canada.

A mystery earth tremor triggered several phone calls to Greater Victoria police stations early Friday morning.

The tremor was accompanied by a "long rolling rumble," said one worried caller who reported the disturbance to the Colonist.

Federal seismologists could not immediately be reached for comment.

Victoria school board opened tenders Thursday for a six-room addition to Gordon Head Junior secondary, and the results sent the project back to the drawing board.

Low tender from G. H.

Wheaton Ltd. was for $133,166, which was $17,808 more than the $115,258 marked for this purpose in a referendum.

The great flower famine is over, and already flower-filled hanging baskets are going up around Victoria.

The famine actually began last December, when frost killed the roots of daffodils destined for flower baskets around the city.

This was a shock to the Chamber, which depended on the flowers for its second annual Spring Flower Festival, April 10-17.

However, A. G. Coning of the Chamber reported Thursday, that the Chamber has ordered 12,000 daffodils from G. A. Van-treight, Saanich wholesale florist, whose flowers were apparently unhurt in the December frost.

The cabinet has appointed former Victoria city manager C. C. Wyatt to the six-member Capital Improvement District Commission. He replaces F. A. E. Manning who resigned after four years on the commission.

Air-to-Air New Destroyers May Get Missiles

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy is considering arming its proposed new helicopter-carrying destroyers with air-to-air missiles.

The Commons defence committee was told Thursday that the Sparrow missile, used by the United States Air Force, is being studied as a possible weapon for the four new ships, the first of which is due to be started by the end of next year.

SHIPBUILDING PLANS
The subject of the missiles arose as the committee heard a detailed report on the navy's shipbuilding program from Commodore J. A. Charles, director-general of force development, and Commodore S. M. Davis, director-general of ships.

Defence Minister Hellyer said that while the Sparrow missile was being considered, no final decision has yet been reached.

GIVEN SCHEDULE
Meanwhile, the committee was given a schedule of the construction and conversion program announced by Mr. Hellyer in December.

The first of the four new destroyers, to cost an estimated total of $142,000,000, will get underway in December, 1966, and be completed in May, 1970. The other three will be built in shorter periods, with the final keel being laid in August, 1968, and completed in July, 1971.

Trustees Get Support Of Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — A threatened resignation by two of the three members of the federal maritime union trustees was averted temporarily Thursday when a Commons committee voted 13 to 5 against demanding the production of a private document by the trustees.

Last week a lawyer for the trustees said they would consider quitting their posts if the Commons industrial relations committee moved to bring private documents and other witnesses before it.

JUDGE QUESTIONED

The matter came to a head Thursday when Judge Rene Lippe, promoted to chairman of the trusteeship earlier this year, was questioned about the handling of last year's election in the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.).

Judge Lippe explained the election procedure by reading from the instructions the trustees prepared for the men they had appointed to help run the election.

TABLING MOTION

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) immediately moved that the document be tabled.

The judge protested. It was "a matter of principle" that the trustees should not be asked to make public any private or confidential paper. He appealed to the committee not to make such a request.

Judge Lippe did not refer to the threat of resignation but indicated he had it in mind when he stressed that a serious matter of principle was involved.

Temple from Nile

Given U.S. by Arabs

PARIS (UPI)—The United Arab Republic has given the United States a temple.

It is at present lying, carved into portable pieces, on an island in the Nile.

The gift is a gesture of thanks to the United States for the $12,000,000 it has given to the fund to save the Abu Simbel temple and other ancient monuments from the rising waters of the Nile backed up behind the High Aswan dam.

The relatively small temple of Augustus, which stood at Denur, was built around 16 BC by the Romans. Later it was used as a Christian chapel. The outside walls are carved with Egyptian bas-reliefs.

Cuban Art Loot on Sale

ROTTERDAM (UPI) — A Cuban freighter carrying a reported $2,000,000 worth of art treasures arrived in this Dutch port last week, it was disclosed Thursday.

The Amsterdam newspaper De Telegraaf said the treasures had been taken from political opponents of Cuban Premier Castro and would be sold to "the highest bidder" in Europe. Police and customs officials were unable to confirm that the treasures were taken from Castro's opponents.

"I can confirm that a precious shipment arrived aboard the Cuban freighter Aracelis," a spokesman for the Dutch customs service said.

The spokesman said the treasures consisted of silver, bronze and marble objects, china and carpets. He said they were shipped from Cuba aboard the freighter but that the name of the sender was not available.

Park Plan

Saanich
May Lease
Gorge

Saanich, which wants to do something about Gorge Park, will probably get the opportunity.

City council approved in principle Thursday a plan to lease the park to Saanich for 20 years at a nominal figure. Saanich, before the lease is signed, will provide the city with a blueprint of its development plans for the recreation area.

DURING TOUR

The transfer is the result of conversations which took place between aldermen from the two municipalities during a tour of parks under the administration of a joint committee.

"This is a long step forward," said Mayor Wilson, approving of the transfer scheme.

PARK DISGRACE

"The park is a disgrace. Saanich is going to submit a plan for its improvement as a first step toward rehabilitation of what could be a real beauty spot for the district," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood.

Saanich wanted to develop the park for the benefit of nearby Saanich residents. Ald. Millard Mooney said.

No Invasion—Yet

Cathedral Hill Protected

By A. H. MURPHY
Colonist City Hall Reporter

Cathedral Hill Precinct, reserved four years ago as a possible site for a new city hall, will be held inviolate against invasion for at least another month or two.

Two applications for rezoning within the area were rejected Thursday by city council, acting on the advice of its advisory planning commission.

The area now is zoned for construction of office and public buildings. Cathedral Hill Precinct is bounded, roughly, by Fort and McClure streets and by Blanshard and Vancouver.

REZONING ASKED

Jameson Motors Ltd. asked that two lots at Blanshard and Broughton be rezoned to light industrial use so that it might unite the two segments of its business there.

The existing service station would be replaced by an automobile showroom, with a mechanical repair shop at the rear.

The planning commission urged rejection on the grounds that conversion to a repair shop would conflict with future plans for the area contained in a report which will be coming out in a month or two.

'BREAK FAITH'

Another reason given for rejecting was that such a drastic change in zoning "would break faith with the provincial government and the Y.M.W.C.A., both of whom met the wishes of the city in considering the siting of their respective buildings, which resulted in the creation of more open spaces around the cathedral."

Second application was for rezoning to allow erection of a high-rise apartment building on two lots at Blanshard and Courtney, behind the Royal Theatre.

This was turned down because the building planned was "too large to meet regulations applicable in the precinct," that it would tower above other precinct development and that it would not conform with setback regulations.

'WHY HOLD UP?'

"Why are we still calling this a precinct? It all started because we were going to build a city hall there. Now it's reached the stage where we are holding up progress. Business wants to expand there and build. Why hold it up?" Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood asked.

"Because it's a number one area and should be laid out and developed properly. We can't open the doors and let just any old business go in there," Ald. Millard Mooney retorted.

"This is on the edge of a commercial area. Big buildings mean big taxpayers. How long are people going to have to wait? They have been held up for four years now," said Ald. Edgewood.

THEN FACTORY

Ald. C. M. Parrott pointed out that if the garage area was rezoned as requested there was nothing to prevent someone from putting up a factory in the district.

"Whatever change is made there will be an improvement. Surely an attractive showroom would be preferable to what is there now," observed Ald. Edgewood.

Rose Pruning
Slated Saturday

Fred Blakeney will give a public demonstration of rose pruning at 2 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Park, Esquimalt. The Victoria Horticultural Society and the Esquimalt Garden Club are sponsors.

"It's not a matter of making an area better than what it now is. It's a matter of what is best for the city and the taxpayers as a whole," said Ald. Mooney. "It might be well to look ahead 100 years and consider future generations."

Fortable torch

Mr. Smith said he had been working with a small portable torch Thursday afternoon trying to disconnect soldered joints on an old gas and wood stove.

"I didn't even get the pipe hot. The solder wouldn't melt," he said.

THIRTY-FOOT FLAMES

Neighbors said the fire started with an explosion that sent flames 30 feet in the air above the roof.

Downstairs windows on the left side of the house were blown out sending flames into the wall of an adjoining home owned by Frank Findlay, 2619 Blanshard.

HEARD BLAST

"I was sitting in the kitchen when I heard an explosion. By the time I turned around the flames were rushing up the side of our house," Mr. Findlay said.

By the time he rushed outside flames were flashing out through the roof of the Smith home.

Forty-three years

"I thought 'there goes our house,'" Mr. Findlay said. The Findlays have lived at the same address for 43 years.

A B.C. Hydro spokesman at the scene said it was unlikely a gas explosion touched off the fire.

GAS WORKING

The upstairs gas service was working while the one downstairs was disconnected.

The fire marshal will be called in today to investigate the cause of the blaze.

Damage was estimated at $7,000. Firemen said the house was "as good as totally destroyed."

Eyewitness:

'Flaming Liquid
Spurled'

A faint glow... an explosion... flaming liquid, this is the way the start of a fire at 2615 Blanshard looked to a young eyewitness Thursday.

Doug Page, 13, of 1105 Hillside, was standing on the corner of Kings Road and Blanshard across the street from 2615, at 6:25 p.m.

"There was a faint glow from the utility shed attached to the back of the house."

"I noticed the glow seemed to get brighter and brighter as I watched."

"Suddenly, there was an explosion. It blew out the windows and part of the walls on one side of the house."

He said immediately after the explosion, he saw what appeared to be a flaming liquid spurled from the side of the building.

"Then the whole inside of the house was just a shell red."

He said two small boys ran by the house right after the explosion; they ran into a neighbor's house, and the neighbor called the fire department.

REMODELING

Irish Sweeps

Islanders
Draw
21 Tickets

The fever of Grand National Steeplechase time is here again, but it's nothing compared to the excitement caused by Aintree's rowdy Dublin partner, the Irish Sweepstakes.

Twenty-one Vancouver Island residents, including 12 from Victoria, are among the 439 Canadians who hold sweepstakes tickets drawn on horses slated to run in the Grand National at Aintree Saturday.

At first, it appeared there would be a record field in the steeplechase, but a rash of sniffs and sneezes in the horsebarns is bringing the number of entries down as fast as ticket-holders' blood pressure goes up.

Of the 94 horses eligible, only 51 are still in the running; more are expected to be scratched before post time.

Tickets on the winning horse pay each holder $150,000. Second is worth $60,000, third place $30,000.

Tickets drawn on non-starters or horses finishing out of the money receive about $1,100.

VICTORIA HOPEFULS

At University

$2,900,000 Job
For Bids in April

Tenders for a $2,900,000 arts and education complex at the University of Victoria Gordon Head campus will be called during April as expansion reaches the second phase.

Tenders were called earlier this week for a $2,100,000 social science complex.

The arts and education complex will be located on the west side of Finnerly Road, across from the McPherson library.

It will be on the west end of the academic quadrangle formed by the Elliott Building to the south, the Clearhouse Building to the east and the social science complex to the north.

LECTURE THEATRE

The complex will house classrooms with adjacent lounge areas, a curriculum library and a 300-seat lecture theatre.

The curriculum library will be separated from the complex to allow evening use and the lecture theatre will be adjacent to the future theatre to enable public access.

The fine arts department will be located in this area to facilitate connection to the future theatre thereby forming the nucleus of the fine arts complex.

A music area will be located in the south side of the building to isolate sound. Student use areas will occupy the two main floors while the remaining six floors will consist of faculty areas and seminar rooms.

The building is expected to match the other buildings on campus by use of stonework in planters and walls in the landscape areas similar to that used in and around the other buildings.

Cowards Take Heart

Airline Pilots Understand Passengers' Fear of Flying

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — If you have a streak of aeronautical cowardice down your back, take heart.

"You're understood in high places — namely in the cockpits and by the captains who steer the very things you fear.

Nine recently retired commercial airline pilots, honored for their more than 250,000 hours on the wing, said in interviews that they are the last to laugh at anyone who is scared of flying.

Together, the captains have spent more than 29 years above the earth — in all kinds of weather.

They met at the wings club in New York and were presented with Swiss watches designed for pilots. Each had an altimeter and barometer in addition to the regular clock works.

Basically, they indicated, everyone is afraid to fly. But experience has shown them that one good flight is enough to erase the fear.

The trick: Trust the pilot, trust the equipment.

Capt. Marius Lodeesen, with Pan American World Airways for 21 years, said it ought to help to realize that flying is 20 times safer than driving an auto.

Capt. Henry Olden, of Northwest Airlines, said aeronautical cowards ought to think of him when flying.

"After 44 years of flying," he said, "I'm a living example of how safe it is. Those who fear look at the negative instead of the positive."

Capt. Alexis Klotz, of Trans World Airlines, has been winging it since 1921. His licence, issued in that year, was signed by Orville Wright.

His career, including flying the mail and for the military.

There will be stalls of home cooking, candy, sewing, novelties, rummage, superfluties and plants, as well as a fish pond and tombola.

PERSONAL MENTION

Wardroom at HMCS Naden will ring to the strains of dance music this evening as the members of the Integrated Cadet Force of the University of Victoria hold their first annual Trident Ball. The name "Trident" was chosen in reference to the three-pronged weapon carried by Neptune, god of the sea, as an emblem of his power over the waves. The three points of the trident symbolize the three services under which integration will blend into one strong force represented by the stout shaft of the spear. Joining the 60 cadets and their guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Taylor, Capt. and Mrs. Peter Thomas, Col. and Mrs. M. W. Allan, and Cmdr. and Mrs. J. H. Maclean. Music will be provided by a combo from the Naden band and a buffet supper will be served.

Buffet Dinner

Heirloom Necklace For 'Something Old'

All Saints Anglican Church, View Royal, was decorated with pink and white spring blossoms for the mid-afternoon ceremony when Lorna Frances Worth became the bride of Mr. John Whitney Melkie.

Rev. John Vickers officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Worth, 375 Ashley Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Melkie, of Vancouver.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a floor-length gown of silk peau d'ange with lily-point sleeves and bateau neckline. Re-embroidered lace appliques enhanced the high empire waist and semi-full sheath skirt which fell into a slight wattle train in back. For "something old" the bride wore a gold necklace, styled with three small birds encrusted with pearls, which belonged to her grandmother. Dainty crown of seed pearls held her softly flared veil of illusion net. She carried a bouquet of white ranunculus.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Mary Nex and Mahri-Annah Melkie, were gowned alike in soft pink lace over taffeta dresses in A-line style. They wore whimsies of pink net appliqued with lace and carried bouquets of white rosebuds.

Mr. Chris Archer was best man. Ushering guests to their pews were Mr. Graham Ross-Smith and Mr. Douglas Worth.

Mr. M. A. Worth, proposed the toast to his niece at a reception which followed at Holyrood House. Pink and white color theme of the wedding was carried out in the floral decorations and the three-tiered cake centering the bride's table. Background piano music was played by Miss Vera Critchard.

For travelling the bride chose a printed silk dress topped by a cream colored, bell-shaped coat of doekin which she made herself. She wore a floral hat in tone and black accessories.

Newlyweds to Live At Chase River

CHEMAINUS—A pretty wedding took place at Chemainus United Church Saturday evening when the Rev. D. S. Lewis united in marriage Victoria Irene Cecelia, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Petras, 10039 Beach Drive, and Zoltan Barna Nagy, son of Mrs. Bertlan Nagy, and the late Bertlan Nagy, of Budapest, Hungary.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink gladiolus, white stocks, iris and forsythia. Mrs. William McBeath was at the organ. Given in marriage by her father, the petite bride was lovely in a full-length gown of lustrous satin, featuring lace overlay on the bodice, scalloped neckline and My point sleeves. The lace train fell from a satin bow at the back and her bouffant veil was held in place with a rhinestone tiara. She carried a cascade of red rosebuds and white carnations and a pearl and sapphire pendant completed her costume.

Miss Susan McBeath, maid of honor, and Miss Patsy Petras, bridesmaid for her sister, wore identical frocks of deep pink nylon sheer over taffeta. A single pink rose and veiling adorned their hair and they carried cascades of pink baby gladiolus and white carnations. Terry Petras was ring bearer and little Rhonda Sherwood, flower girl. She wore a frock of turquoise nylon sheer, styled with flounced skirt, and carried a colonial bouquet of white stephanotis centred with a red carnation. Best man was James McLeod and Fred Gronlund acted as usher.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. A three-tiered wedding cake was embedded in pink tulle on a handmade lace cloth.

For a wedding trip to the United States, the bride donned a turquoise boucle suit, white accessories and corsage of dainty pink rosebuds. On their return they will reside at Chase River.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter, not only for my sake but for all teen-agers who have this problem—and I'll bet there are millions. It is my mother. Whenever my mother is in the car and I am driving, she bugs me until I am ready to jump out of my skin.

It's "Watch out for those kids, Billy. You're awfully close to the car ahead, Billy! The fellow behind you is going to pass you, Billy. You're driving too fast. Use those mirrors. Watch that light."

I've been driving for two years and I never have had an accident, a ticket or even a warning. I am a much better driver than my mother, and most of my friends are better drivers than THEIR mothers, but we all get bugged just the same. I beg you to say something in your column about this, Ann Landers, but please be fair to us. Think back to when you were a teen-ager—or did they have cars in those days?—FLINT, MICH.

Dear Flint: That last line is not likely to get me on your side, kid. I will say something, however, on behalf of teen-agers who drive carefully and have perfect safety records. You do deserve support.

A yelling mother destroys the confidence of a teen-age driver. Moreover it can be dangerously distracting to have someone shouting orders. Please, mothers, try to remember that junior is out of rompers. His eyes and reflexes are probably better than yours.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter about the two couples who started out changing partners on the dance floor and ended up changing partners legally.

That letter was especially interesting because I was involved in one of those switcheroos, myself. Here's what happened: Our cosy little foursome didn't start on the dance floor. It began by playing footsie under the card table.

Both couples had been married over 15 years. We had two children. They had three. It was the talk of the town when we decided to switch but we thought we could rise above the gossip and show everybody.

Well, the other man committed suicide two years later. His widow (my ex-wife) has been married twice since then. My marriage went on the rocks two months later because my wife (the ex of the man who committed suicide) decided it was all her fault. She drove me crazy with her self-incrimination, and we got a divorce. The last I heard she was in a mental hospital.

I have remarried and am happy now, but I don't feel I deserve to be happy because of what has happened to the rest of the original foursome.

So please, Ann Landers, tell folks that the grass on the other side of the fence has just as many thorns and weeds as the grass on the home side. Maybe more.—A RETREAD.

Dear Tread: YOU told 'em.

Home Life Cause Of Girls' Suicides

MONTREAL (CP)—In a two-year study of 21 attempted suicides among girls aged 14 to 16, Dr. Julien Bigras, a Montreal psychiatrist, found the suicidal trigger within the girls' family life. "On the surface the girl may take this step because of a school or sentimental upset," he said, "but on closer investigation we will find the source of unhappiness in her home life."

Prepare the Site

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Let's see now—where were we in that business of starting your free seeds of the new Giant Multiflora sweet peas?

We shook up the moistened seeds with a little Spergon, Captain or Arasan to rid them of any seed-borne plant diseases or rot organisms, then we set them to sprout in a covered dish of damp vermiculite. The container is kept in a cosy warm place to induce the rapid "hatching" of the hard-coated seeds.

Please understand we are not going to grow the plants indoors, as we do tomato plants. Sweet peas are remarkably hardy, and even though there is always a possibility of ground frosts in late spring, our seedlings will come to no harm if grown outdoors from the very start.

What we are doing here is merely sprouting the seeds before sowing them, so they will be all set to start growing as soon as they go into the ground. This is a process known as "chitting" the seed in England, and as "vernalizing" among the plant scientists. The Russians are growing extra-early wheat crops this way, and English gardeners often pre-sprout the seeds of slow-germinating kinds such as carrots.

While our sweet pea seeds are hatching in their incubator, we'd better get the planting site ready. Ideally, this should have been prepared last fall, but one thing you soon learn in gardening is that a lot of the rules in the book can be broken and the plants still grow.

At one time it was considered necessary to dig a trench almost deep enough to bury a horse before planting sweet peas. This excavation was filled with all kinds of assorted goodies for the roots—chopped sod, rotted manure, bone meal, wood ashes and the like—all arranged neatly in layers rather like a Dagwood sandwich.

The old-time gardeners had a theory that the sweet pea roots could be coaxed deeply into the ground by arranging their favorite foods in layers in this way, like hanging a carrot in front of a donkey's nose.

It has been my experience that such a very deep trench does more harm than good, in our part of the country anyhow. The trench acts as a drainage sump for all the surface water in the neighborhood, and the roots soon find themselves trying to eke out an existence in a mess of gooey mud. I have run across many cases of root rot and bud-dropping in trench-grown sweet peas, caused undoubtedly by too much water and too little air in the zone of the lower roots.

I prepare my sweet pea site by digging it over, not deeply, but to the full depth of my spade. I make the site considerably wider than the old-time sweet pea trench, though about 30 inches wide, or 15 inches on each side of the seeded row—in order to encourage the lateral spread of the active feeding roots. The site gets a generous dressing of old rotted manure—about one bucketful per square yard—and this is dug in and mixed intimately with the soil rather than left in layers.

If you have no manure, a pretty good substitute is peat moss soaked in chemical fertilizer solution—use two tablespoonsful of any high-test soluble fertilizer per gallon of water. Soak your peat moss in this, wring out excess moisture, and handle exactly as you would natural manure.

With this done, rake over and level the plot, then give it a surface dressing of hydrated lime, 2 cups per square yard, and scratch it into the surface with the rake. Tread the plot now to firm the soil, and give it a final raking.

You are all set now to make your seed furrow, 1½ inches deep, sow your sprouted seeds, and put up some supports for the vines.

ART BUCHWALD Sums Up Situation

Justice Hit Where It Hurts

WASHINGTON — Last week the House of Representatives defeated a bill to give the nine members of the United States Supreme Court a raise of $3,000, and all I can say is, it's about time.

When you think of some of the decisions the Justices have been making in the last few years, it's surprising the Congressmen didn't vote to close down the Supreme Court altogether.

By refusing to give the Supreme Court Justices a raise, Congress was saying, in effect, "We may not agree with what you say, but we'll defend to the death our right to see you do not get any extra money for saying it."

As everyone is aware, the Supreme Court Justices of the United States are only in their jobs because of the money. If you start hitting them in the pocketbook, they'll think twice about making a decision that will offend members of Congress.

Up until recently the House of Representatives has had little to say about what goes on in the Supreme Court, but everyone hopes that this will soon be corrected. You can't have a government with three separate branches of government all going in different directions, no matter what the Constitution says.

Congressmen have shown great patience with the Judiciary, but the Supreme Court has insisted on remaining independent, because it thought it was immune to the desires of the legislative branch of the government.

Little did the nine Justices realize that Congress controlled their bread and butter (and pensions) and the Representatives would have to do something drastic to get the Justices in line.

By serving notice on the Supreme Court, that it can't expect any raises from Congress until it toes the line, the House of Representatives has performed a great service.

Some editorialists have been written to the effect that Congress had refused the court for such unpopular court decisions as the reapportionment of Congressional districts. But anyone who has talked to Representatives knows they wouldn't stoop to anything like that. Congressmen are not out for blood. If the Supreme Court plays along with them, they'll play along with the Supreme Court.

But there is no reason to waste taxpayers' money on nine men who are deciding issues differently from the way Congress sees them.

I think after last week we can expect an entirely different Supreme Court from the one we've had in the past. I have it on good authority that the wives of Justices were counting on the extra $3,000 raise and have told their husbands to be more co-operative with the members of Congress in the future.

Some wives have asked their husbands to consult with the various Congressional chairmen before handing down any important decisions.

In this way they can appease Congress and hope that the House will reconsider their raises in the next session of Congress.

The decision to veto the Supreme Court Justices' raises will, in the long run, have a very salutary effect on government, because it will bring the legislative and judicial branches of the government so much closer together.

The ideal, of course, would be to make the Justices answer to a Congressional committee for their actions, but that may have to come later.

Lesson Learned

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Natalie Wood has not been signed by Paramount for the picture version of Barefoot in the Park as has been rumored. Paramount executives do not want to make the same mistake Jack L. Warner made when he passed up Julie Andrews and cast Audrey Hepburn in Julie's role in My Fair Lady, so it is virtually certain that Elizabeth Ashley will repeat her "Barefoot" role in the picture. With just three pictures to her name, two of them unreleased, Elizabeth's salary has already reached the six-figure bracket, and is climbing rapidly.

Anthony Quinn arrives here April 3 to attend the Academy Awards — and he still hasn't decided whether or not to bring his new family with him. . . . Tony has more at stake than just his ego in winning an Oscar. He owns one-third of Zorba The Greek and if he wins as best actor, or the picture wins, it could add several million to his box-office.

Edie Adams will include a very accurate impression of Lady Bird Johnson in her new night club routine.

Lorne Greene is sitting on $250,000 worth of night club offers received since he agreed to make his debut at the Nugget in Nevada April 29, and is trying to work out his Bonanza schedule so he can accept them.

Columbia wants to team Lee Remick and Dick Van Dyke in their big musical for 1965, Chataqua. Speaking of Dick, I saw Mary Poppins for a second time and am more convinced than ever that Dick should have been nominated for an Oscar along with Julie Andrews. He does everything in that picture and does it extremely well.

Fred MacMurray received over $1,000,000 when he sold the re-run rights to his My Three Sons series to CBS. . . . Warner's feel they have a new star in Sally Kellerman, who makes her picture debut with George Peppard in The Third Day — they've signed her for three more pictures. . . . Vivian Vance has told Lucille Ball that she definitely will not be back to do a third season with Lucy on her show.

Robert Mitchum will fly to Nairobi, Africa, for one day to attend the world premiere of his Mr. Moses picture which will be held for the Masai natives. That's the picture he made with Carroll Baker. Speaking of Carroll, I understand she was Paramount's last choice to play the sex-pot in The Caribbeaggers, but Joseph Levine insisted she be given the role — and he won. If he hadn't, Carroll wouldn't be playing Harlow today.

George Montgomery, in Spain starring in the Battle of The Bulge, gets almost daily letters from ex-wife Dinah Shore. When he left to do the picture, his romance with young and pretty Charlie Noel ended. No matter what, absence does not make the heart grow fonder.

The romance between Jim Henson and producer Aaron Spelling, is getting more and more serious. Jill brought her mother here from New York to meet him. Aaron will be a millionaire soon, since three of his series have been sold for next season.

Julie Styne and Yip Harburg are trying to lure Glynis Johns back to the London stage in their new musical, The Great Adventure. They've sent her the script and the plan is to open in London this fall and later bring it to Broadway.

Red Steiger writes from Seia, Spain, the Dr. Zhivago location, and the coldest area in Spain, that "I am freezing to death, it is dull here and the most exciting thing we do is to play scrabble." This will make Red's sixth picture in a row and when he finishes he and wife Claire Bloom want to spend three months doing nothing.

Birth Control Study

Papal Group Listens To Experts

ROME (Reuters) — Pope Paul's special commission studying possible changes in Roman Catholic teaching on birth control Thursday held unprecedentedly frank talks ranging over all forms of contraception.

The meeting, which began Wednesday on the outskirts of Rome amid elaborate precautions to ensure secrecy, is due to end Sunday night.

FIFTY EXPERTS

More than 50 experts from many parts of the world discussing the problem include doctors, moral theologians, scientists, economists, sociologists, and psychologists.

Each was presenting a report to the commission followed by group discussion.

SEEK AGREEMENT

A commission source said: "A lot of the members are in favor of some form of contraception. Others are completely against. But all are anxious to come to some agreement."

The activities of the commission, and the full list of its members, have remained secret since it was founded last year following the Pope's pledge that profound study would be given to the birth control problem.

WORKABLE MAJORITY

The pontiff was understood to have asked the commission to try to produce a workable majority in its report on whether changes are possible in the Roman Catholic teaching on birth control.

Priests and doctors on the commission, according to usually well-informed sources, are so divided on whether use of the contraceptive pill should be allowed for Roman Catholics

Pension Plan Not Right Says Roberts

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Roberts criticized the Canada Pension Plan and predicted changes in it will have to be made within four years.

He told a delegation from the Ontario Federation of Labor that he was disappointed the joint Senate-House of Commons committee that studied the plan had made no changes in it.

AMENDMENTS IGNORED

Ontario's proposed amendments had been ignored, he said, and the committee's hearings had been a "waste of time."

Ontario had recommended a minimum pension of $25 a month under the plan for all persons receiving the 75-a-month old age security payment. The province also wanted a 20-year transition period for the plan to pay full benefits, instead of 10 years.

New Marine Agent Named for Victoria

New district marine agent for Victoria is L. E. Slaght, who will take up duties May 1, a transport department spokesman said Thursday.

Mr. Slaght, an engineer with the aids to navigation division in Ottawa, was formerly district engineer at Charlottetown, P.E.I. He has been with the department since 1948.

He will replace Col. Keith Dixon, who recently retired after 11 years as marine agent.

Nine-Day Wonder

This pouch does things by itself. She's a German shepherd-Golden retriever named Piedmont. She's nine months old, has nine puppies, and this picture caught them as nine-day-olds. Piedmont and her puppies are owned by Doug Richmond, 12 Camden.

New Westminster was warned on March 26, 1963, "a party of light-fingered gentlemen are known to be in town. Citizens, look to your tills."

BIG GEORGE! by Virgil Partch

Good Enumerators Are Hard to Find

VANCOUVER (CP)—The assistant chief electoral officer of Vancouver testified Thursday he has sometimes had difficulty in finding literate persons to act as enumerators.

Edward Anglin was testifying at a royal commission hearing into allegations that six unions supported New Democratic party candidates with fraudulent votes in the 1963 federal election.

Hearings before Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz of the British Columbia Supreme Court, the sole commissioner, opened Thursday morning.

FIGHTING TIME—Mr. Anglin said the process of enumerating voters is a rush—"you're fighting time all the time."

He said he had encountered difficulties in finding suitable enumerators to prepare voters' lists in rural areas, and "in some cases there is difficulty in getting someone who can read and write."

Allegations of voting irregularities were made in February by Ormond Turner, columnist for The Vancouver Province.

He said an unnamed source came to him with evidence of duplication of names on voters' lists.

Professor Says:

New School Course Has Sacred Slant

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of British Columbia professor who helped draw up a new secondary school curriculum said Thursday parts of it sound like a political primer.

Dr. J. D. McGinn, assistant professor of psychology, said he is "concerned and perplexed" by the 77-page document.

He said a political economist might comment that the General Business 11 course—economics and geography of B.C.—has some sections that "look suspiciously like a political primer, more like such a primer than a public school curriculum."

The outline recommends study of the government-owned B.C. ferry system, discussion of public versus private ownership of public utilities, stress on the role of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway in the Peace River area development, and the value of highways to economy.

DYNAMIC SOCIETY

It also uses in two places the phrase Premier W. A. C. Bennett used to describe B.C.—the dynamic society.

Dr. McGinn said the activities of the committee he served on met infrequently, lost the minutes of its first two years' work, and had many of its eventual recommendations ignored.

His allegations caused a storm in the House of Commons when raised by the NDP, but party leader T. C. Douglas and Prime Minister Pearson eventually agreed a public judicial inquiry would satisfy them.

Prisoner Off to Hospital

A Sooke man was taken to hospital at lunch-time Thursday, shortly after he had been sentenced in city magistrate's court to 12 months' imprisonment.

The man, Robert Francis Millette, 3853 East Sooke Road, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital and later returned to city jail cells, a hospital spokesman said.

The spokesman declined to disclose what Millette had been treated for.

ON STRETCHER

Eyewitnesses at Saanich courthouse saw Millette carried on a stretcher to a police patrol wagon from the courthouse cell, where he had been awaiting transfer to prison to begin his sentence.

About an hour earlier, Millette had stood in the dock with tears streaming down his cheeks as sentence was passed on him at the end of a trial that had taken about five hours, stretched over three days.

Millette was charged with theft and possession of a $200 camera, and had pleaded not guilty on both counts.

STOLEN FROM CAR

The camera was stolen from the car of Jim Ryan, a professional photographer, while the vehicle was parked on Johnson March 2 between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Around 4:30 the same afternoon a man identified as Millette went into a second-hand store on Johnson and sold the camera for $10.

Millette's defence was that the camera was one of two he had bought that afternoon from an unknown man outside a Chinatown cafe.

NEW VALUE

"I'm quite sure that I wouldn't steal off one of my best friends," Millette told Magistrate William Ostler.

The magistrate said a defence witness had testified to drinking with Millette during the time the camera was stolen so he was dismissing the theft count.

But there could be no doubt Millette knew the valuable camera for which he was asked to pay only a few dollars was a stolen one, the magistrate said.

Before sentence was passed on Millette, Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said the man had a record, mainly for false pretences, going back to 1956.

Hawaii-Bound

The Esquimalt-based, destroyer-escort HMCS Fraser sailed for Hawaii Thursday to take part in the second phase of Project Sailor Hat.

A 500-ton TNT explosion will be detonated on the shore of Kahoolawe Island and its effects on the Fraser and two U.S. navy ships will be measured.

The Fraser took part in the first phase of the exercise in February when she was stationed 3,300 feet from the explosion. For this explosion she will be moved much closer.

Most of the crew will be removed for the explosion. Results of the test will provide information to determine the ability of present warships to withstand nuclear attack and to aid in designing ships of the future.

For Fulton's Return?

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Dr. C. J. M. Willoughby, who won the Kamloops seat in the House of Commons after E. Davis Fulton stepped out of federal politics two years ago, announced Thursday he will not seek re-election.

His statement came amid reports that Mr. Fulton, former cabinet minister in the Diefenbaker government, would return to the federal scene possibly to seek leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

At present, Mr. Fulton is provincial head of the party, which has no seats in the British Columbia legislature.

Dr. Willoughby, 71, said in a statement he was stepping aside "for personal reasons."

In Vancouver, The Province says Mr. Fulton is expected to announce his return to federal politics at a meeting in Victoria April 3.

The morning newspaper says Mr. Fulton will run in Kamloops riding.

NO COMMENT

Mr. Fulton refused to comment on the report when reached by telephone, but said he expects to make a statement later.

The newspaper says that when Mr. Fulton was told details of its report he commented "they are quite wrong."

The newspaper, in a report from Victoria says a two-day quarterly meeting of provincial party executives opens at Victoria April 2.

Youth Irked At Police Who Laugh

A youth stopped by police investigating a case of wilful damage was said in city court Thursday to have threatened to lay charges against them for "laughing on duty."

Police testified Roy Frank Di Castri, 18, of 627 Bay, had been leap-frogging with a companion over sapling trees on Government between Princess and Bay late in the evening of Feb. 17.

When police arrived he became very abusive, saying he had influential friends in town and would "pull strings."

He had been boxing for five or six years, he said, and would take on any of them. Shortly afterward he grabbed Const. Bruce Campbell by the lapel of his raincoat and with his other hand gave him a hard push in the chest.

Police then overpowered Di Castri, who was charged with assaulting a policeman and wilful damage to city trees.

Di Castri first pleaded not guilty to both charges, but following an adjournment at the end of the prosecution case, defence counsel Alan Higelow announced Di Castri wished to change his plea to guilty on both charges.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Di Castri on bail until March 31 for sentence.

Punjabi-speaking Harbant Singh Bakwan, 1024 Empress, pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident and was fined $250.

The defendant was driving west on Queens Ave. March 7 when he became involved in a collision with an eastbound car. He later told police he had not stopped because he thought his car had only "touched" the other one.

Ian Henry Elise, joint proprietor of Uncle Jake's discotheque, was fined $10 for not renewing his trades licence.

Police had made a routine check at the dance hall on the evening of Feb. 20 and found that the licence for the hall had expired Jan. 15.

The licence has since been renewed, court was told.

He committed the theft March 16 while delivering advertising circulars on Pipeline Road.

Pendray Paid For Tilikum

Ex-mayor of Victoria, the late J. Carl Pendray, paid to have the Tilikum brought from the Thames River to Victoria, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow told city council Thursday.

Asking that the whole story of the famous dugout canoe be looked into, Ald. Edgelow suggested that a plaque be put up by the city near the canoe's new home in the B.C. Maritime Museum, Bastion Square.

"This is not an argument against moving the canoe from Thunderbird Park," said Ald. Edgelow. "As a matter of fact, moving it probably saved it for many years to come."

City Clerk Frank Hunter said that there was no entry in city records in 1930, when the canoe was brought to Victoria. It was probably never officially received by the city.

Pope Plans New Link

The secretariat would be patterned after two already-existing secretariats for communication with non-Catholics and non-Christian church groups.

Senator Says:

Texas Left Out Of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Mississippi senator suggested on Thursday that the administration voting rights bill law was framed so that Texas would not be covered by its terms.

The blunt suggestion, by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), was denied by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach. He said Texas, home state of President Johnson, was not covered by the bill but assured the Mississippi senator that specific exemption of Texas was not the intent of those who fashioned the legislation.

EASTLAND INTERRUPT

Eastland, chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, interrupted a line of questioning by another member during the hearings Thursday to challenge the attorney general with "Isn't it true that you have a testing device in this bureau to keep Texas out?"

Eastland also asked the attorney general, testifying for the third straight day before the committee, "Wasn't one of your big hassles over one plan to keep Texas out of the bill?"

"No one proposed that in the bill," Katzenbach replied. "I can't recollect any discussion of keeping Texas out."

Katzenbach also replied to another question by the Mississippi senator that he did not know about any controversy on the staff level over keeping Texas out of the voting rights legislation.

Johnson Pushes Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress Thursday to vote a broad program to combat the problems of economically backward areas of the United States at a cost of nearly $300,000,000 a year.

Johnson, sending to Congress a special message on area and regional economic development, said his blueprint would help depressed areas with a total population of about 27,000,000 people.

Much of the money would finance public works projects designed to make communities more attractive to industry.

Pictures Show

Landing On Moon Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. space director James E. Webb reported to President Johnson and the cabinet Thursday that pictures from Ranger 9 gave strong indications that the moon's surface is strong enough to support a manned landing.

Webb reported on both the Ranger 9 photographic mission to the moon and the two-man Gemini space flight. He reviewed the details in an unusual session with reporters after his session with the president and the cabinet.

MORE INFORMATION

Webb made these points:
● "As a result of careful study of the Ranger 9 pictures, we now know there are two or probably three spots where a manned moon landing would be possible." He cautioned, however, that a vast amount of additional information will be necessary before a manned landing actually is undertaken.

● An American astronaut probably will be able to open his spacecraft and partially emerge from the cabin during the Gemini 5 flight. Webb said under questioning that there might be some possibility of achieving this in the next Gemini flight, but that Gemini 5 was more likely.

● He regarded the fact that the Russians had a cosmonaut leave a space vehicle briefly as spectacular. But he said the United States was more intent on developing a space suit which would enable American astronauts to work outside on space vehicles and develop or put together space centres.

All Doctors Too Busy— No Autopsy

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP) —No charges have been laid in connection with the death of an Indian woman early Wednesday because no doctor can be found to perform an autopsy.

Sgt. I. G. Thorsteinson of Fort St. John RCMP said all doctors in the remote north Peace River area are extremely busy, and he doubted an autopsy could be completed before late Thursday night.

He identified the dead woman as Mary Apaw, found dead in her cabin on the Doig River Indian reserve 45 miles northeast of Fort St. John.

Police were holding her husband, Jimmy Apaw, 38, chief of the Doig River tribe.

Europeans Studying Color-TV

VIENNA (UPI)—The International Color Television Congress opened Thursday with the task of selecting a single color system for Europe.

Observers said there was little hope of early agreement in view of Russia's decision two days ago to use the French "Secam" system.

Twenty-seven countries have sent 208 delegates to attend the two-week conference.

Delegates will form small study groups to discuss the three systems offered for European use — the American "NTSC," German "Pal" and "Secam."

Color TV is expected to come to Europe within the next two years.

PEKING (AP) — "If the Americans are not content with threatening gestures and really want to provoke a wider conflict, then the Chinese and Russian people will close ranks."

This was Premier Chou En-lai talking about the situation in Viet Nam. Continuing in this vein in a 2½-hour interview, he declared:
"That is the truth. Remember that and you will see that history will bear it out. That is why President Johnson, who is dancing on the tight rope of war and doesn't know how to turn about, is risking some surprises."

Chou emphasized the last phrase, but did not say what he meant by it.

U.S. Willing To Assist 'In Peace'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Against a background of congressional talk about negotiations, President Johnson said Thursday "the United States will never be second in seeking a settlement in Viet Nam that is based on an end to Communist aggression."

This was basically a repetition of the often-stated U.S. position on the war in South Viet Nam. But Johnson said also the U.S. looks forward to a day when all Southeast Asia "will need not military support and assistance against aggression but only economic co-operation for progress in peace."

This appeared a broad hint that the U.S. stands ready to assist even Communist North Viet Nam in a tranquil Southeast Asia.

The president's latest recapitulation on the troublesome Viet Nam situation was offered in a statement to his cabinet which was released by the White House press office.

Johnson's views were made public a few hours after Senator Jacob Javits (Rep.-N.Y.) urged Johnson to disclose "general principles on which we are willing to negotiate" to end the expanding warfare.

The New Yorker offered a resolution which would put Congress on record as approving stepped-up U.S. military efforts but would express also U.S. readiness to undertake "honorable negotiations" to halt the increasing and costly guerrilla warfare.

Conflicting Signed Statements

Dupuis Framed Says Promoter

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Race track promoter Roch Deslauriers testified Thursday that he swore out a false statement in February of 1964 implicating Yvon Dupuis in an alleged $10,000 influence - peddling payoff because Bernard Pinard, Quebec roads minister, was anxious to get evidence against Mr. Dupuis.

Mr. Deslauriers made the statement under cross-examination at the preliminary hearing of Mr. Dupuis, a 38-year-old former federal cabinet minister who faces three influence - peddling charges in connection with an abortive attempt to get a racetrack charter from the Quebec government in 1961.

Mr. Deslauriers, 31, a St. John's chiropractor who sought the racetrack charter, said the false statement, sworn out last year, asserted that Raoul Gobeille was in Mr. Dupuis' office in the parliament buildings May 9, 1961, when Mr. Deslauriers handed the Liberal member of Parliament two envelopes containing $10,000 in cash.

Mr. Deslauriers testified earlier that Mr. Gobeille waited outside in the car.

This, he repeated Thursday, was the truth.

He had drafted the false statement because Mr. Pinard wanted evidence against the former federal minister without portfolio.

The chiropractor said he had also had Mr. Gobeille swear out a false statement to the effect that he had seen the money change hands.

Mr. Deslauriers said he went

to Mr. Pinard to complain that the racetrack franchise, despite many assurances, had not been issued.

That was when Mr. Pinard had asked him to gather evidence against Dupuis, the Liberal MP for St. Jean-Iberville-Naperville.

ON BORDERLINE

Earlier, defence lawyer Raymond Doucet read in court another sworn statement of Mr. Deslauriers which the chiropractor said was not exactly false, but parts of which were "on the borderline" of truth.

Mr. Deslauriers said he signed this statement, dated last Dec. 26, under "enormous pressure" from Real Rousseau who, he said, was introduced to him by Mr. Dupuis as a top man in the Liberal party.

The statement was written by someone else and he was told to sign "to save Dupuis at Ottawa."

TO SAVE DUPUIS

The statement said Mr. Dupuis had never asked for any gift in return for his support of the racetrack charter application, but was given the money to pass on to the late Paul Earl, then Quebec revenue minister.

This conflicted with Mr. Deslauriers' earlier testimony to the effect that Mr. Dupuis had both demanded and received $10,000 in cash for his efforts.

MONTGOMERY (UPI)—

A 39-year-old white mother of five was shot to death Thursday in the culmination of a 30,000-man civil rights march on the Alabama state capitol led by Dr. Martin Luther King and undersecretary of the United Nations Ralph Bunche.

The victim was Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, of Detroit.

The killing capped the most massive racial demonstration in the history of the deep south. The protest matched in drama the "March on Washington" by 200,000 persons in 1963.

Col. Al Lingo, head of the Alabama State Patrol, said papers on Mrs. Liuzzo's body indicated she was one of the persons who took part in the mass demonstration in Montgomery.

SHOT WHILE DRIVING

The woman was shot to death while driving back to Selma from Montgomery, a distance of 50 miles.

Mrs. Liuzzo's identity was established by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which King heads.

Lingo said the shooting took place about three miles west of Lowndesboro, Ala., where the Selma-to-Montgomery marchers camped on the next-to-last night of their five-day trek to the capitol.

Lingo said two shots were fired at the car but that police did not know whether the shots came from another car or from the side of the road.

Lingo said one bullet apparently hit the top of the car, the other passing through the window on the driver's side and

Lawful Process 'Prostituted'

MONTGOMERY (UPI)—Gov. George Wallace, speaking on nationwide TV, called the 30,000-man civil rights march on the Alabama capitol "prostitution of lawful process."

He said the demonstration cost $1,000,000. This apparently was a reference to expenditures by the federal government.

Wallace said, "I see that Ralph Bunche, the United Nations man, was here. He's supposed to be defending us against Communists but today he was consorting with known Communists."

Wallace said he would not be "intimidated" by the people "who come up here in a mob." He said a very small percentage of the demonstrators were Alabamians.

He congratulated the people of Alabama for lack of incidents during the Selma to Montgomery march.

"The white people of Alabama stayed completely away because we asked them to," he said. "I think that should be widely reported."

Navy 'Hell' at Sea

OTTAWA (CP)—Claims that some sailors aboard the aircraft carrier Bonaventure are living in "unmitigated hell" were made before the Commons defence committee on Thursday by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East).

He said a mess he visited on the carrier was so crowded there wasn't room for a card table, and the heat was "terrible."

Mr. Winch, who recently returned from visiting Canadian ships in joint U.S.-Canada exercises in the Caribbean, also said the air conditioning system in the newer destroyer escorts is uncomfortable, depending on the temperature of the water.

Off the coast of Costa Rica, some men had to wear four blankets in bed because the air conditioning could not be controlled, he said.

Commander S. M. Davis, director-general of ships for the navy, said the main purpose of air conditioning is to control temperatures around electronic equipment, and to enable the ship to be sealed off from outside elements in case it has to go through toxic clouds.

So far as the Bonaventure is concerned, Commander Davis said, Mr. Winch's criticism was justified but this was characteristic of the ship's age. Improvements would be made but they "can only be marginal."

This was the way it happened:
"At 12:05 a.m. my phone rang," he said.
"It was a call from Montgomery. A man told me, 'Your wife has been shot.'"
"I asked him: 'Is it serious?'"
"He said: 'No, it's critical.'"
"And then he said, 'Just a moment please and let the phone. He came back to the phone and said, 'She's dead.'"
A few moments later, he said, newsmen began calling.

"I had a feeling tonight: I just had a feeling," he said. Liuzzo said he told one of the children:
"March still isn't over. There's more bad things left in the month."
Then he added:
"These people fought a civil war more than 100 years ago and they're still fighting it. What kind of people can they be?"

'They Killed Mom'

DETROIT (UPI) — "There were 25,000 people down there and she had to be the one. She had to be the one. My God, it's unbelievable."

Those were the anguished words of Anthony J. Liuzzo, 31, minutes after he learned his wife, Viola, 39, had been shot to death while driving back to Selma, Ala., from Thursday's racial demonstration in Montgomery.

Liuzzo, a big husky teamsters official, wept openly and cried: "The dirty rats, the dirty rats. What kind of people are living down there? What kind of people can they be?"

He described his wife, a mother of five, as a "champion of the people. She was the biggest hearted woman you ever saw in your life."

Mrs. Liuzzo, a laboratory technician at Mt. Sinai Hospital and a part-time student at Wayne State University, had gone to Selma last week.

"I tried to discourage her," Liuzzo said. "But she told me four or five of her friends were going down there and I couldn't stop her. They took off."

Liuzzo talked to newsmen in his home, a big brick colonial in a pleasant neighborhood in northwest Detroit. It was 1 a.m. but all the lights were on. There were children crying: "They killed Mom. They killed Mom."

Friends and relatives were there to comfort the stricken family.

Some of them were hysterical.

Liuzzo, who was chain smoking cigarettes and trying to hold himself together, said he found out about his wife's death shortly after midnight.

Willow Point Maps Its Strategy

CAMPBELL RIVER — Residents of the portion of Willow Point Water District who have been excluded from the new district municipality have been told they have a choice.

They can either form a new water district or buy water from the district municipality. "The status of this area has not changed," said John Steven, secretary-treasurer of Willow Point Water District.

He spoke to a meeting of 51 residents who live south of Ocean Grove Road.

Don Huntley told the meeting he recently discussed the new situation with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell and deputy minister J. Everett Brown.

OFF THE TRACK — He said Mr. Brown "admitted the formation of a district municipality had run off the track in places." But Mr. Huntley quoted the official as saying this could be corrected with a vote in February.

John Steven told the meeting Willow Point pays $8,000 a year to Campbell River Fire Protection District, but has no representation in the district.

Financial statement of the fire protection district showed $37,102 excess of revenue over expenditures. But Mr. Steven said there was no mention of a cut in rates.

The meeting passed a motion asking steps be taken to bring the area into the fire protection district.

NANAIMO — A 21-year-old Ladysmith man was pronounced dead on arrival at Nanaimo Regional Hospital at midnight Wednesday following a traffic accident on the Trans-Canada Highway about seven miles south of Nanaimo.

Christopher George Carmichael, Timberland Road, was a passenger in a small European car that struck the north abutment of the Maslam Creek Bridge late Wednesday night.

DRIVER INJURED — Police identified the driver of the car as John Douglas, 21, of 118 Fry Street, Nanaimo. Douglas is in satisfactory condition in hospital with hip and internal injuries.

Carmichael was alive when police arrived at the scene but was pronounced dead at the hospital. Police said the car was southbound when the mishap occurred.

Coroner Russell Inkster ordered an inquest into the man's death. This is the sixth traffic fatality in the Nanaimo area since Jan. 1.

The chamber selected a two-man committee to investigate the move following an address here Thursday by Ray Hunt, Vancouver, manager of the retail merchants division of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, B.C. Division.

The 30 members also voted to accept a nominating committee proposal for return to office of the chamber's entire slate of officers until Dec. 30.

DECLINED TO REMAIN — President Cliff Pascoe declined to remain in the post and the nominating committee was instructed to present nominations for the positions of president and vice-president at the next meeting of the chamber, in mid-April.

In his speech to the chamber Mr. Hunt expressed disappointment in provincial government refusal to take over regulation of closing hours.

DENIAL OF DEMOCRACY — He cited a local government action in Burnaby as an example of "a complete denial of democracy."

He said the council had decided on longer shopping hours in spite of a brief from 429 merchants urging control. Some 20 merchants were in favor of open hours, he said.

Dad's Car Was Speeding

Drag Racer's Father Fined for Son's Sin

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO—The father of an 18-year-old speeder was fined a total of $65 by Magistrate Eric Winch Thursday for allowing his brand new car to be driven faster than the posted speed limit.

James Harold Hackwood pleaded guilty to two charges of being the registered owner of a car that was speeding in a 50-mile-per-hour zone at Nanaimo Lakes Road March 14.

MANY COMPLAINTS

Because of numerous complaints from the public, the police set up a radar trap in an area along Nanaimo Lakes Road. Police say the road is being illegally used as a drag strip. A quarter-mile stretch is marked off by start and finish lines painted on the highway.

CLUB WARNED

Court was told Corp. John Urquhart, head of the RCMP highway patrol here, had warned members of a drag racing club on a previous occasion not to use that portion of the road.

The road is heavily travelled by sightseers on Sundays and by logging trucks from Crown Zellerbach's Nanaimo Lakes camp during the week.

At 2:30 Sunday afternoon the Hackwood youth was clocked by radar at 70 miles an hour. He had reached that speed in 800 feet from a standing stop. Four minutes later in 800 feet from a standing stop he reached 71 mph, say police.

OTHERS NABBED

Corp. Urquhart said about 20 to 30 spectators were standing at the side of the road. Five other youths clocked at excessive speeds were also charged and will be appearing in court in the near future.

Mr. Hackwood was fined $30 on the first charge and $35 on the second charge.

DRAW STRIP

Several years ago, the Nanaimo and District Safety Council tried to obtain use of Cassidy Airstrip for drag racing and later turned the project over to the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Neither organization succeeded.

Irish Sweeps

Islanders Draw 21 Tickets

The fever of Grand National Steeplechase time is here again, but it's nothing compared to the excitement caused by Aintree's rowdy Dublin partner, the Irish Sweepstakes.

Twenty-one Vancouver Island residents, including 12 from Victoria, are among the 439 Canadians who hold sweeps tickets drawn on horses slated to run in the Grand National at Aintree Saturday.

At first, it appeared there would be a record field in the steeplechase, but a rash of sniffles and sneezes in the horsebarns is bringing the number of entries down as fast as ticket-holders' blood pressure goes up.

Of the 94 horses eligible, only 51 are still in the running; more are expected to be scratched before post time.

Tickets on the winning horse pay each holder $150,000. Second is worth $60,000, third place $30,000.

Tickets drawn on non-starters or horses finishing out of the money receive about $1,100.

Union Bay Lives 'in Chains'

Candidate Flays Property Feudalism in Company Town

UNION BAY — The chains of dark-ages feudalism bind the residents of this community, says a New Democratic candidate.

Neville Shanks, NDP provincial candidate in Comox riding, told a meeting in the former coal centre Wednesday:

"People here are living under a latter-day feudal system totally unacceptable by any modern social standard."

He said this situation is one of many in the province that would quickly be cleared up by a government "that really had the welfare of the people at heart."

He pointed out Canadian Collieries Resources Limited, the owners of the land in which Union Bay stands, sold houses to the residents, but did not sell the property underneath the dwellings.

"Rent is paid to the company for the land, and improvement taxes are paid to the government through the company," he said.

Mr. Shanks told the Union Bay residents:

"The result is the owners of the houses are not eligible for the homeowners' grant, they pay school taxes but cannot vote on school issues, and pay improvement district taxes but have no voice in the operation of the district."

He told the meeting another "almost unbelievable" feature of the leases is that homeowners, on 90 days' notice, may be required to pick up their houses and move away.

Mr. Shanks said it is an intolerable situation which must be cleared up at once.

"Pressure should be put on the mining company to clean away the old coal loading wharf," he said.

He said the look of the whole community is marred by "this gaunt and dirty skeleton."

An interview with Chou

Chinese views on Indochina and other world problems are emphasized in this interview with the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai. The writer, now in China, is a former Polish diplomat. He writes for the New Statesman of London and Nouvelle Observateur de Paris.

'Chinese, Russians will close ranks'

'Johnson, on tightrope of war is risking some surprises'

PEKING (AP) — "If the Americans are not content with threatening gestures and really want to provoke a wider conflict, then the Chinese and Russian people will close ranks."

This was Premier Chou En-lai talking about the situation in Viet Nam. Continuing in this vein in a 2½-hour interview, he declared:
"That is the truth. Remember that and you will see that history will bear it out. That is why President Johnson, who is dancing on the tight rope of war and doesn't know how to turn about, is risking some surprises."

Chou emphasized the last phrase, but did not say what he meant by it.

U.S. Willing To Assist 'In Peace'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Against a background of congressional talk about negotiations, President Johnson said Thursday "the United States will never be second in seeking a settlement in Viet Nam that is based on an end to Communist aggression."

This was basically a repetition of the often-stated U.S. position on the war in South Viet Nam. But Johnson said also the U.S. looks forward to a day when all Southeast Asia "will need not military support and assistance against aggression but only economic co-operation for progress in peace."

This appeared a broad hint that the U.S. stands ready to assist even Communist North Viet Nam in a tranquil Southeast Asia.

The president's latest recapitulation on the troublesome Viet Nam situation was offered in a statement to his cabinet which was released by the White House press office.

Johnson's views were made public a few hours after Senator Jacob Javits (Rep.-N.Y.) urged Johnson to disclose "general principles on which we are willing to negotiate" to end the expanding warfare.

The New Yorker offered a resolution which would put Congress on record as approving stepped-up U.S. military efforts but would express also U.S. readiness to undertake "honorable negotiations" to halt the lingering and costly guerrilla warfare.

Promoter's Conflicting Testimony:

False Statement Meant To Frame Ex-Minister

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Race track promoter Roch Deslauniers testified Thursday that he swore out a false statement in February of 1964 implicating Yvon Dupuis in an alleged $10,000 influence - peddling payoff because Bernard Pinard, Quebec roads minister, was anxious to get evidence against Mr. Dupuis.

Mr. Deslauniers made the statement under cross-examination at the preliminary hearing of Mr. Dupuis, a 38-year-old former federal cabinet minister who faces three influence - peddling charges in connection with an abortive attempt to get a racetrack charter from the Quebec government in 1961.

Mr. Deslauniers, 31, a St. Johns chiropractor who sought the racetrack charter, said the false statement, sworn out last year, asserted that Raoul Go-beille was in Mr. Dupuis' office in the parliament buildings May 9, 1961, when Mr. Deslauniers handed the Liberal member of Parliament two envelopes containing $10,000 in cash.

Mr. Deslauniers testified earlier that Mr. Gobeille waited outside in the car.

This, he repeated Thursday, was the truth.

WANTED EVIDENCE

He had drafted the false statement because Mr. Pinard wanted evidence against the former federal minister without portfolio.

The chiropractor said he had also had Mr. Gobeille swear out a false statement to the effect that he had seen the money change hands.

Mr. Deslauniers said he went to Mr. Pinard to complain that the racetrack franchise, despite many assurances, had not been issued.

That was when Mr. Pinard had asked him to gather evidence against Dupuis, The Liberal MP for St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville.

ON BORDERLINE

Earlier, defence lawyer Raymond Daoust read in court another sworn statement of Mr. Deslauniers which the chiropractor said was not exactly false, but parts of which were "on the borderline" of truth.

Mr. Deslauniers said he signed this statement, dated last Dec. 26, under "enormous pressure" from Real Rousseau who, he said, was introduced to him by Mr. Dupuis as a top man in the Liberal party.

The statement was written by someone else and he was told to sign "to save Dupuis at Ottawa."

'TO SAVE DUPUIS'

The statement said Mr. Dupuis had never asked for any gift in return for his support of the racetrack charter application, but was given the money to pass on to the late Paul Earl, then Quebec revenue minister. This conflicted with Mr. Deslauniers' earlier testimony to the effect that Mr. Dupuis had both demanded and received $10,000 in cash for his efforts.

MONTGOMERY (UPI)

—A white mother of five from Detroit was shot to death Thursday night while running a shuttle service between here and Selma for some of the 30,000 demonstrators who marched on the Alabama statehouse.

The federal bureau of investigation said early today that a bullet from a high-powered rifle killed Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, of Detroit. Civil rights leaders said the shots came from a passing automobile.

Mrs. Liuzzo was returning from Selma to Montgomery on U.S. Highway 90, the route used by the civil rights marchers in their five-day trek to the capitol, when two bullets hit her automobile about three miles west of Lowndesboro, a crossroads on the highway.

The massive demonstration, regarded as a historic moment in the civil rights movement in the south was led by Nobel Prize winner Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and Ralph Bunche, under-secretary of the United Nations.

The killing capped the most massive racial demonstration in the history of the deep south. The protest matched in drama use "March on Washington" by 200,000 persons in 1963.

Col. Al Lingo, head of the Alabama State Patrol, said papers on Mrs. Liuzzo's body indicated she was one of the persons who took part in the mass demonstration.

Lingo said one bullet apparently hit the top of the car, the other passing through the window on the driver's side and

'They Killed Mom'

DETROIT (UPI) — "There were 25,000 people down there and she had to be the one. She had to be the one. My God, it's unbelievable."

Those were the anguished words of Anthony J. Liuzzo, 51, minutes after he learned his wife, Viola, 39, had been shot to death while driving back to Selma, Ala., from Thursday's racial demonstration in Montgomery.

Liuzzo, a big husky teamsters official, wept openly and cried: "The dirty rats, the dirty rats. What kind of people are living down there? What kind of people can they be?"

He described his wife, a mother of five, as a "champion of the people. She was the biggest hearted woman you ever saw in your life."

Mrs. Liuzzo, a laboratory technician at Mt. Sinai Hospital and a part-time student at Wayne State University, had gone to Selma last week.

"I tried to discourage her," Liuzzo said. "But she told me four or five of her friends were going down there and I couldn't stop her. They took off."

Liuzzo talked to newsmen in his home, a big brick colonial in a pleasant neighborhood in northwest Detroit. It was 1 a.m. but all the lights were on. There were children crying.

"They killed Mom. They killed Mom. They killed Mom."

Friends and relatives were there to comfort the stricken family.

Some of them were hysterical.

Liuzzo, who was chain smoking cigarettes and trying to hold himself together, said he found out about his wife's death shortly after midnight.

This was the way it happened:

"At 12:05 a.m. my phone rang," he said.

"It was a call from Montgomery. A man told me, 'Your wife has been shot.'"

"I asked him: 'Is it serious?'"

"He said: 'No, it's critical.'"

"And then he said, 'Just a moment please and left the phone. He came back to the phone and said, 'She's dead.'"

A few moments later, he said, newsmen began calling.

"I had a feeling tonight; I just had a feeling," he said. Liuzzo said he told one of the children:

"March still isn't over. There's more bad things left in the month."

Then he added:

"These people fought a civil war more than 100 years ago and they're still fighting it. What kind of people can they be?"

Estimates Passed Early Today

The way was cleared for prerogation of the second session of the 27th B.C. legislature when final estimates were passed by weary members at 1:45 a.m. today.

This afternoon, the House will sit at 3 p.m. to deal with seven government bills, 17 private members' bills and 23 motions on the order paper, including amendments to Canada's proposed constitution.

U.S. Envoy Awaited

Indonesians Halt Petty Harassment

JAKARTA (UPI)—Petty harassment of Americans here came to a halt Thursday. U.S. and Indonesian officials awaited the arrival of a special envoy sent by President Johnson in an effort to ease strained American-Indonesian relations.

Special envoy and veteran dip-omat Ellsworth Bunker, appointed as presidential troubleshooter, is expected to arrive Sunday. U.S. Ambassador Howard Jones met with President Sukarno Thursday for more than two hours to discuss the nature of Bunker's visit.

An editorial in the semi-official Indonesian Herald Thursday expressed hope that Bunker's visit "would rescue Indonesian-American relations from further deterioration."

Crew Jumps Free of Fire

HARRISON (CP) — The three-man crew of the tug Tatcho jumped to a boom and safety Wednesday night as the vessel was suddenly enveloped in flames on Harrison Lake.

Shipper Victor Kelly, 43, Warren Lees, 20, and Ernie Link, 20, escaped injury and were picked up later from the boom by another vessel.

The lives of Americans returned to normal conditions. Harassment during the past week included the cutting off of electricity and gas to American homes, interruption of mail deliveries and a 24-hour blackout on news stories filed by American correspondents. All such annoyances appeared to have stopped.

Winch Hot About the Heat

Navy 'Hell' at Sea

OTTAWA (CP)—Claims that some sailors aboard the aircraft carrier Bonaventure are living in "unmitigated hell" were made before the Commons defence committee on Thursday by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East).

He said a mess he visited on the carrier was so crowded there wasn't room for a card table, and the heat was "fierce."

Mr. Winch, who recently returned from visiting Canadian ships in joint U.S.-Canada exercises in the Caribbean, also said the air conditioning system in the newer destroyer escorts is uncomfortable, depending on the temperature of the water.

Off the coast of Costa Rica, some men had to wear four blankets in bed because the air conditioning could not be controlled, he said.

Commodore S. M. Davis, director-general of ships for the navy, said the main purpose of air conditioning is to control temperatures around electronic equipment, and to enable the ship to be sealed off from outside elements in case it has to go through toxic clouds.

So far as the Bonaventure is concerned, Commodore Davis said, Mr. Winch's criticism was justified but this was characteristic of the ship's age. Improvements would be made but they "can only be marginal."
